Tyner's Reports on the Star Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Times this morning prints Tyner's report of date of August 5, 1880, and entitled, "Memoranda of Suggestions as to Star Service in Pacific Section," made out as addenda to a report to the postmaster general on the star service in the Pacific section. The following taken from the report illustrates the character of the whole: Route No. 44,154 in Oregon, from the Dalles to Lakeview, was let under advertisement of Nov. 1st, 1879, once a week for $3094. The route was advertised and let as 227 miles in length on a schedule of 108 hours, or a fraction over 2¼ miles per hour. It has since been increased to six times per week between the Dalles and Prineville, an intermediate station situated 118 miles from the Dalles, the northern terminus; and it has also been expedited between said points by increase of frequency at a cost of $6114 additional, and a total expedition cost of $11,777. The expedited schedule requires a pro rata running time of 3½ miles per hour between the points named, against 2¼ per hour under the award of the contract. No connections are formed at Prineville, and no benefit of consequence accrues to anybody except the contractor for the increase of speed. The department pays nearly $12,000, and yet the importance of mails passing over the route, a route which does not carry through mails or form a link in a great through line, may be estimated by the fact that the aggregate compensation of postmasters at all offices from the Dalles to Prineville, including the latter and excluding the former, which is not dependent upon it for support, is $490. Between Prineville and Silver Lake, another intermediate office on the south, there is really no need of service at all, as there is no postoffice or any population to supply. The route is not entirely essential for north and south connections, as other routes subserve this end, and the link between Silver lake and Prineville might therefore be dropped without detriment, leaving Silver lake to be supplied from the south only. Route 44,160 of Oregon, from Canyon City to Camp McDermot was let at same time as above route. It is 223 miles long, as advertised, and was let on a schedule of 132 hours at not quite two miles per hour, once a week, at a cost of $2833. It ought to have service once a week to supply military posts. Scarcely any one else has been interested in its supply of twice a week at double cost, and the above named would be very liberal. Since the letting it has been increased to three times per week, and expedited at a cost of $18,512 additional, making the total annual cost $21,800. The expedited schedule requires a speed of 2¼ miles per hour instead of a speed of 1 84-100 miles per hour, and for this slight increase the department pays $12,823. The importance of the route for local purposes, it not being a through line in a proper sense, is indicated by the fact that the offices solely dependent upon it for supply yield an aggregate compensation to postmasters of $4760, and a gross revenue of less than $100.

Willing to Rest his Case.

First Assistant Postmaster General Tyner, referring to the publication of the report made by him on star routes two years ago, said he would willingly rest his case upon it.

Tyner will Explain.

Judge Tyner pronounces unfounded the statement that he suppressed his report. He says it is false. He declined to say anything more about the matter further than to remark that after he has had an interview with President Arthur he will probably make a full and complete explanation of this and all other charges against him.

WASHINGTON CITY.

A Legal Opinion Concerning Guiteau.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—R. T. Myrick, a well known lawyer here, believes the district court without jurisdiction in Guiteau's case, and has an able authority to sustain that view. He says it would be much less discreditable to the country that Guiteau should be lynched by the people than be lynched by the court.

Guiteau's Witnesses.

In the supreme court Judge Cox rendered a decision upon the application of Scoville, counsel for Guiteau, for an order of court allowing fees and expenses to defendant's witnesses. The judge held that it was clearly indiscretion to allow expenses for a reasonable number of witnesses, the same to be paid in the same manner as government witnesses, and stated he would decide in chambers as to the number of witnesses to be allowed. Upon the question of assignment of counsel to assist the defense the judge stated he would defer the matter until after consulting with Scoville.

Guiteau as a Letter Writer.

Herald: To-day Guiteau wrote a letter in which he says his grounds for defense are three:

First: He did the act by the will of God, which was the cause of the president's death. He further states in this letter that he will be discharged by the court and that the authorities of New Jersey will not take cognizance of the case because they do not wish to trouble themselves with the trial. He has also written a letter to the president stating that he is without money to pay the expenses of witnesses or to hire lawyers and he demands that the president have money appropriated for this purpose, and threatens in case he is refused to make some revelations that will ruin the republican party and enable the democrats to gain control of the country.

Some Possibly Startling Facts.

Scoville, Guiteau's counsel, is causing some excitement in political circles because of an avowed intention to make the most of the political aspects of the case. He is reported as saying yesterday there is more of politics in the case than most people imagine. "I intend everything connected with the crime shall be developed, and if I should have a stalwart to help me he might autograph this case. If it is necessary, I shall not hesitate to bring out the connection of Conkling with the inception of the crime. The stalwart schism was responsible for the matter, etc., and the responsibility of the crime shall be placed where it belongs, if I secure that result." The opinion is very general here Judge Cox will decide he has no jurisdiction. Richard T. Merrick, who will argue this point for Scoville, is quite sure there is no jurisdiction and says the circuit court of the district has decided in that way in two similar cases. Merrick also remarked he could not see how Judge Cox, as it has been stated he intended to do, could have the question of jurisdiction disposed of before the trial of the case commenced. For, said he, the prisoner has pleaded not guilty, as he had a perfect right to do, and I cannot see how the judge can require him to change the issue thus made. It was a mistake to arraign the prisoner if the judge was in doubt as to his jurisdiction.

Don't believe in his Insanity.

The Medical Record to-morrow will publish an editorial on Guiteau's mental condition, expressing the opinion that he cannot be considered irresponsible.

Southern Representation in the Cabinet.

Southern republicans are making an earnest effort to have Gen. Longstreet made a member of President Arthur's cabinet as a representative of the south.

A Melancholy Spectacle.

Hunt, secretary of the navy, has the entire southern representation clamoring for his scalp. No officer ever in public life has in so short a time acquired so much unpopularity. The entire state of Louisiana is protesting against his retention. The republican members of congress from that state have telegraphed here that every republican newspaper in Louisiana and all republican organizations unite in a protest. There was, however, no more undignified spectacle presented in Washington office-grabbing than Secretary Hunt's application to be retained. He has pursued the president with most extraordinary personal appeals. He has dwelt upon the fact that he gave up a life place to go into the cabinet, and that if he leaves the present place he is so poor he will not have money enough to pay his next month's house rent. Mrs. Hunt, who was a schoolmate of the late Mrs. Arthur, has made an appeal to have her husband retained. So extraordinary have been the demands made upon the good nature of the president that some have feared that Hunt may be retained for a short time. There does not appear to be any great danger of that. His career as secretary of the navy has been one long record of pompous blunders and absurdities. He has made so many needless enemies that even those who wished to have him placed in the cabinet have deserted him. One of his most pompous absurdities was to call the title of his office "minister of marine." Of course it goes without saying that he will not be retained; Gen. Garfield before he died had made up his mind to get rid of him; but he doubtless will be given something to support him so that the wolf can be kept from his door.

Returning Home.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Arthur and Secretaries Blaine and Hunt returned this morning upon U. S. steamer Dispatch. Secretary Lincoln, Assistant Secretary Hitt and Walker Blaine will return to-morrow, accompanying the French and German visitors upon a special train from Richmond.

Can Secure Right of Way.

President Arthur and the Secretary of the Interior to-day gave their consent that the Chicago, Texas and Mexican Central railroad and the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad may apply to the council of the Choctaw nation, Indian territory, for a right of way through the nation. The council now in session, it is understood, will grant right of way, having waited only for the permission of the Government.

Letter from Mrs. Garfield.

Col. Rockwell has received the following letter from Mrs. Garfield:

MENTOR, Oct. 17, 1881.

Dear Col. Rockwell: It is my wish that an account of the literary remains of Gen. Garfield shall be published, after that careful consideration and preparation so manifestly necessary. To that end I request you will announce in some public manner my purpose to cause this work to be done at earliest practicable time, and of which due notice will be given. Very sincerely yours,

LUCRETIA R. GARFIELD.

With reference to the foregoing Col. Rockwell makes the following explanation to those not acquainted with the great capacity for work and vast versatility of Gen. Garfield. The extent, variety and orderly arrangements of his intellectual state are amazing. Fully appreciating its value and believing that the most enduring monument of the late president must be erected upon a granite foundation of what he said and did were Mrs. Garfield's purposes, affectionate and careful work in this direction, such monument therefore illustrating a life which cannot be written; since the world has moved far enough away from him to take in its grandeur, her career and character may be expected only after mature and deliberate work, and as coming from her selection and authority.

Senate Confirmations.

The senate military committee this morning agreed to report favorably on all army nominations referred to them this session except those of Carter Raymond and Maddox and Johnston, of Minnesota, to be assistant surgeons. These nominations are withheld not because there is any objection to appointees but the committee thought that the state seemed getting more than its share, and appointments should be better distributed.

LAND LEAGUE LABORS.

They are Ended in Ireland for the Present.

ITS FINAL EXIT MADE WITH A SOLID SHOT AT ENGLAND.

"No Rent" Proclaimed the Watchword for future Action on the part of Irishmen, and the World anxiously watches for the Result.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A Herald's Dublin special says: The facts regarding the preparation and issue of the Land League "no rent" manifesto are interesting. The resolution declaring that no rent should be paid was decided on Friday night at a private meeting of the executive. Messrs. Dillon, O'Kelly and Biggar voted against the step, but they were in the minority. Mr. T. D. Sullivan and others voted for it. The manifesto was prepared Saturday and smuggled into Kilmainham jail by a clerk of Mr. McGough, a solicitor of the league, at a meeting of the prisoners as they washed during recreation time, when Parnell, Brennan, Sexton, Kettle and others carried the manifesto in. It was then signed by the members whose names were attached and taken out under the noses of the authorities. Davitt's authority was obtained through a priest or warden in Portland. The government is so angry at the use made of solicitors that it has issued an order that both doctors and solicitors of prisoners should only visit them in presence of wardens. Visits of every kind, except those of physicians, are forbidden for six days. Even Parnell's solicitor is refused admittance. Dr. Kenny has written to the governor of the jail that if he is subjected to this indignity he will no longer attend the jail, while the prisoners resolve not to allow the prison doctor to attend them. The guards of the prison have been doubled. Davis has been taken to Dundalk jail, the authorities desiring that he should not be able to reveal the doings of the league outside to the prisoners. His arrest was the immediate result of having signed a circular sent to the league branches instructing farmers to issue bogus mortgages and bills of sale of their property and interest in their holdings to shopkeepers and friends in order to prevent landlords from seizing them for rent. This reckless and outrageous step was immediately discovered by the government, and the "No Rent" manifesto hurried the declaration of the illegality of the league. Yesterday was one of suspense, the land league had fired its shot. Throughout Ireland had gone their "No Rent." By yesterday morning's mail it went to every corner of Ireland and to every member of the league, a large white placard printed in big, black-bodied type, as follows: "No Rent.—Parnell, Davitt, Dillon, Sexton, Kettle, Brennan, Egan."

Proclamation against the League.

The proclamation against the land league warns all persons that the Irish national land league or by what other name it may be called, is an unlawful and criminal association; and that all meetings to carry out or promote its designs or purposes are unlawful and criminal, and will be prevented and dispersed by force. The proclamation warns the queen's subjects connected with the league to disconnect themselves from it and to abstain from giving further countenance to it. The powers and resources at the government's command, the proclamation says, will be employed to protect the queen's subjects in the free exercise of their lawful callings and occupations, to enforce fulfillment of all lawful obligations, and to save process of law and execution of the queen's writs from hindrance or obstruction. It calls upon all legal subjects to uphold and maintain the authority of the law and supremacy of the queen in Ireland.

When the news reached the land league's office of the government's proclamation a hurried council was held. Books and documents were secured and letters from the country destroyed. Many books and papers were taken to places of safety, lights extinguished and doors locked. The executive officials decamped, fearing arrest, leaving only a stock of note paper and envelopes.

Michael Hogan, a farmer of Clare, and Daniel Kennedy and James Daly of Attacotty, have been arrested.

Derry and Drogheda are proclaimed.

Limerick was quiet at eleven to-night.

The Land League's Action.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—To-day there will not be an eye in Ireland which has not seen the last decree of the league. To those who watched the grip which the league had upon the agrarian population for the last two years, those two words have a terrible significance. In the opinion of the closest observer, if tenants throughout Ireland obey the decrees they frustrate all military and official authority. It is beyond doubt illegal, and not a member of the league with whom I have spoken, but expressed his expectation of the immediate declaration of a decree of the league and arrest of its remaining members. Mr. Sullivan said at the meeting on Tuesday that this is coming to close quarters. The next card is to be played by the government, for landholders now drop out of the conflict, the strike against rent being really a challenge to England itself and directed against her authority and against union.

Irish-American Sympathy.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—President Collins of the land league of America, telegraphs the Freeman's Journal at Dublin, as follows: The land league in America expects the people of Ireland to follow the advice of the Irish executive and meet the crisis heroically. You must sacrifice and suffer in the present to win in the end. Upon the first eviction a special fund will be raised to help you. Hoar for justice. Forward!

Land League Officers Frightened.

DUBLIN, Oct. 21.—Land league officials were seized with a panic when the proclamation against the league became known. It is believed the government intends to make arrest of members of the league in England. It is all over with the leaguists. The greatest consternation prevails among those directly or indirectly associated with the league. 100,000 copies of the United Ireland League organ have been distributed throughout the country with a cartoon of an atrocious character representing the government and premier practicing every form of brutality.

The Premier's Health.

Gladstone took a walk yesterday and attended the Hawarden church harvest festival.

English Journals on Yorktown.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Times says of the Yorktown celebration: Englishmen were unprepared to find an occasion upon which a British disaster was nominally celebrated serving to rivet the bonds of union between the countries. President Arthur's graceful words and the grateful regard wherewith he spoke of the queen, will make a deep impression in the hearts of Englishmen.

The Standard, referring to the compliment paid the British flag at Yorktown, says, though no such tendency of good will was requisite after the address of President Arthur on assuming office, yet it will not be less appreciated, and is enhanced by the graceful terms in which the order decreeing the compliment is worded.

French Enthusiasm.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The French-American club celebrated the Yorktown centenary by a dinner. It was also celebrated in several quarters of the city. The tricolor and stars and stripes floated from the public buildings. The French press is enthusiastic over the event.

Austrian Courtesies.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—King Humbert visited the emperor at 10 o'clock. The court will leave Goodla for Vienna especially to welcome the king. The Hungarian diet adopted an address in reply to a speech from the throne.

Delayed Dispatches.

A general breakdown of wires between Valentia and London is reported and cable business is delayed.

Ship Wrecked.

The British bark Lebu is abandoned off Douglas, Isle of Man. A lifeboat when rescuing the crew capsized and twelve persons were drowned.

WOOL AND WOOL BURS.

The following, written by Col. Hallowell one of the members of Mr. Villard's party, will be found of interest and value to our wool growers and dealers. Col. Hallowell is one of the leading wool merchants of Boston.

PORTLAND, Oct. 21, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As a very inadequate return for the hospitality I have shared, in common with the members of Mr. Villard's party, I beg to throw out a suggestion in reference to the wool industry of this state and adjacent territories.

Upon enquiry it appears that the product of the Willamette valley is 1,000,000 pounds, of Eastern Oregon and Washington 8,000,000 pounds, together 9,000,000 pounds, and that the industry may be indefinitely extended in the territory tributary to Walla Walla.

These wools vary as do the wools from other countries in length and strength of staple, in shrinkage, in fineness of fibre and in all respects except one. That one is freedom from every species of small bur. This exemption is of no mean commercial importance and can be claimed by no other country, except New Zealand, whose clothing wools, so called, are common to our eastern markets. Not less than 30,000,000 pounds of the clip of California is passed through burring machines to the great detriment of the staple. Such wools are discriminated against by buyers four cents per pound average. The annual loss, therefore, to California wool growers is $1,200,000. It is claimed, however, that this loss is offset by the sustenance afforded the sheep by the bur-clover during the winter months.

This offset would not apply to Oregon and Washington, where the climate would kill off the clover every fall. When it reappeared in the spring with other herbage it would prove an unmitigated nuisance and a large commercial loss.

The capacity of bur-weeds and bur-clover to spread over the land is well known. Southern Ohio has long been infested. In Indiana they are very bad, and they now begin to vex the wools of Illinois and Michigan. In conversation with your merchants I learn that flocks driven from California into southern Oregon have already introduced into [illegible] the bur of the yellow, and the [illegible] bur of the violet clover, though as yet to no great extent; also, that an occasional small bur, presumably from the east, can be found this season in the wools from the Walla Walla section. With the completion of the N. P. R. R., and the consequent rapid settlement of the country, one or more of these pests will inevitably come, and come to stay, unless exterminated at once and at all times upon first appearance. The remedy implies eternal vigilance on the part of every farmer and owner of a sheep ranch. The press can, at all events, sound the alarm, and agricultural committees can take heed. N. P. H.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer vouches for the story that Charles Sumner believed that George H. Williams of Oregon was the best lawyer in the United States senate, and this at a time when the senate contained Edmunds, Carpenter and Conkling.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

A new Incorporation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—The Nevada Consolidated Company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $500,000. The object is to conduct mining, milling and working of all kinds of ores and metals. The directors are L. T. Lagrave, Morris Hollech, Gustave Frank and John Landers of San Francisco, and Millard B. Farnell, P. B. Clark and John A. Bagley, of New York. Messrs. Lagrave, Hollech, Frank, Farnell and Landers have each subscribed stock to the amount of $100,000.

Cricket.

The All England Eleven cricket club to-day played a match game against a picked 22 Californians, beating them by 398 to 44.

Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—An unknown man suicided at Mountainview cemetery at Oakland yesterday by shooting himself.

Drowned while Fishing.

George Garland of Galt was drowned in McCauley's lake, Sacramento county, while fishing yesterday.

Arrival of the Thomas Corwin.

The revenue cutter Thomas Corwin arrived late last night from the Arctic. Her news was anticipated. She has on board nine seamen of the whaler Daniel Webster. At St. Michaels she learned of the loss of three vessels in Galawin bay, August 15th, names not ascertained. Letters per Corwin report very heavy weather in the arctic. The steamer while attempting to make a second landing on Wrangel land had her rudder disabled and was obliged to cut away an ice breaker to save the ship. On Chamisso island she found an astronomical station bearing inscriptions of several British ships, including H. M. S. Blossom, 1826, Herald, 1848, Plover, 1849, an Russian-America Co. expedition, 1838. At Elephant point nearly the entire skeleton of a mammoth with remains of aurock, musk ox and reindeer were found.

Death of an old Pioneer.

William Adrian, one of the old pioneer merchants of this city, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday.

San Francisco Scraps.

Nine jurors have been secured in the case of Michael Dolan, on trial in department 11, for the murder of D. Hayes. This is the third day of examining jurors.

The ship Landseer, which arrived to-day, reports that on Sept. 17th, Richard Montgomery, ship carpenter, while at work between decks, fell down the lower hold and was instantly killed.

The Sierra smelting and mining company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000,000. The board of directors are L. Osborne, J. W. T. Peat, Robert O'Neill, W. J. Collins and Edwin Lewis.

The Cricket Match.

In the cricket match to-day the English made 178 runs. The Californians then went to the bat, but before scoring darkness stopped the game. If the Australian steamer, on which the English eleven have taken passage, sails to-morrow the game will be declared off, but if her sailing is delayed the game will be finished to-morrow.

Very Childish.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—After the large meeting of the land league at Irish-American hall this evening Gladstone was burnt in effigy.

Accidentally Killed.

GILROY, Oct. 20.—George Culp, thirteen-year-old son of J. D. Culp, of San Felipe, was accidentally shot last night by a target rifle in the hands of M. Jacobs, of San Jose. He died from the wound to-day.

Drowned on Donner Lake.

TRUCKEE, Oct. 21.—Yesterday A. C. Philbrook and J. Hanscom went out on Donner lake in a sailboat for a hunt. This forenoon the boat drifted ashore about half filled with water and containing the dead body of Philbrook. The body of Hanscom has not been recovered yet. The lake is too rough to make a search.

UTAH.

The Emerson Trial.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 21.—The trial of Jack Emerson for the murder of John Turner began here to-day. Emerson assisted Fred Welcome to beat Turner's brains out with an axe when he was asleep in his wagon near Park City July 8, 1880. They carried the body in his wagon several days until it began to decompose, and then put it in Echo canyon. Welcome was tried and sentenced to be shot. Emerson claims that he was hired by Welcome and did not know the body was in the wagon.

Rather Unsatisfactory.

A letter from Bilsebe, Sonora, reports that the Indians had attacked that settlement, no particulars.

The Legislative Visiting Committee.

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—Both houses of the legislature as a committee of the whole, together with Governor Newell, THE OREGONIAN correspondent and others, left Olympia on the O. T. R. R. this morning and proceeded to visit the territorial penitentiary at Seatco. The buildings, provisions and clothing were carefully examined, and the prisoners called in from work to enable them to present their complaints, if any. Contractor Billings was present and took pains to point out everything of interest to the members. The legislative party took the train for Tacoma, where they took the steamer Otter for Seattle, arriving here at 7 P. M. The committee will visit the university to-morrow, and proceed to visit the insane hospital at Steilacoom Monday.

The Fate of a Boaster.

WALLA WALLA, Oct. 21.—Last night a party of men at Milton, Oregon, took Dr. Rinearson out, stripped him, gave him a coat of tar and feathers and ordered him to leave, because he bragged about seducing a man's wife. The doctor failed to leave town and has been locked up.

THE MOUTH OF THE COLUMBIA.

Correspondence with the War Department in Relation to the Improvement of the Bar.

PORTLAND, Oct. 18, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Several weeks ago, on consultation with government engineers, I communicated with the honorable secretary of war asking for an appointment of a board of engineers to specially examine the mouth of the Columbia river. It will be remembered that Col. Gillespie reported Dec. 5, 1880, in favor of a plan for permanent improvement costing the small sum of $430,000. Gen. Wright, chief of engineers, referred the matter to a New York board, composed of Gens. Tower, Newton and Abbot, who failed to approve of the outlay.

As Col. Gillespie still stands by his recommendation, notwithstanding the reasons advanced by the New York board, I wrote to the secretary of war urging the importance of the work as strongly as I could and asking for the appointment of a special board to come and view the situation in person and examine all the data of surveys and otherwise now in the possession of government officers in charge and report on some plan of improvement. I was especially desirous of a favorable report in time for the coming session of congress. Thinking the answer of the secretary of war of interest I attach it hereto. Respectfully, M. C. GEORGE.

OFFICE OF CHIEF OF ENGINEERS, U. S. A.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1, 1881.

Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, Secretary of War—SIR: In reply to the reference to this office for report of a communication from Hon. M. C. George, of Portland, Oregon, of July 28th last, requesting the appointment of a special board of engineers to inspect the mouth of Columbia river and report upon its improvement in time for action by the next congress, I beg leave to state that the importance of this improvement has not been lost sight of. The annual report of this office, which will be presented to congress at its next session, will contain such information obtained from recent surveys as will, it is believed, show the necessity of awaiting future developments in the changes now going on in the channels of entrance, before attempting a radical improvement or again submitting the subject to the consideration of a board of engineers. These changes will continue to be carefully watched, but owing to the magnitude of the work and its great cost, it would be premature to attempt anything further at this time. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. G. WRIGHT,
Chief of Engineers, Brig. and Bvt. Maj. Gen.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON CITY,
October 5, 1881.

SIR: Your letter of the 28th of July last, requesting the appointment of a special board of engineers to inspect the mouth of the Columbia river and report upon its improvement in time for action by the next congress, was duly referred to this department, and in reply thereto I have the honor to invite your attention to the enclosed copy of report of the chief of engineers, to whom the subject was referred. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. T. CROSBY,
Chief clerk for secretary of war in his absence.
Hon. M. C. GEORGE, M. C., Portland, Oregon.

CONGRATULATORY.

We take much pleasure in congratulating our enterprising druggists, Messrs. C. H. Woodard & Co., upon having secured the agency for Slayton's Famous Yosemite Cologne, Harmless Yosemite Face Powder, and California Pine and Eucalyptus Porous Plaster. We call particular attention to the Eucalyptus Plaster, which is taking the lead of all others. The Yosemite Cologne has already become a household word, and all the ladies recommend the Face Powder. C. H. Woodard & Co., Portland, Oregon.

"Hub Punch" is delicious with lemonade, ice, soda or milk. Have it ready for the welcome or parting guest.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Speech by William Lloyd Garrison, Jr., before the Woman Suffrage Association of Oregon.

At the second evening session of the Woman Suffrage Association of Oregon Mr. Wm. Lloyd Garrison, Jr. of Boston, was introduced by Rev. Mr. Eliot as a visitor and member of the similar association in New England. Mr. Garrison spoke as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen: I esteem it a privilege to be with you this evening. Holding both by inheritance and conviction the belief that human rights and responsibilities are not limited by the accident of sex, I belong upon your platform. To a Bostonian, finding himself 3000 miles away from home, on what he has been accustomed to consider the outskirt of civilization, your city is a perpetual surprise. He finds here the same kind of people, the same books, the same homes he has left behind, and it is impossible to realize that Portland is not a city of New England. If anything more were needed to preserve the illusion, here is the familiar and time-honored woman suffrage convention. How well I know it. Year in and year out, through discouragement and ridicule and apathy, doomed to repeat the old arguments, to answer for the thousandth time the objections raised by timidity and prejudice, the weary yet unwearied advocates of simple justice compel the attention of the public.

How many times with exhaustive eloquence and unanswerable reasons these stale objections have been demolished! There was a time that when the brains were out the man would die and there an end, but now they rise again, and we are forced again and again to "slay the slain." But tiresome as it is to continually repeat line upon line and precept upon precept, and to labor to prove that two and two make four, such is still, always must be the work of the reformer.

In Massachusetts our cause moves upward and onward, steadily and surely. We have attained the partial school suffrage for women and every year petition the legislature to submit the question of full suffrage to the people's vote.

It is customary now, when the question comes up in the legislature for discussion, for the opponents to raise no objections, but simply vote it down. The report of the committees and the weighty speeches are on the side of woman's enfranchisement; but with a dogged persistence the majority continues in the negative, as though with diminishing preponderance.

This year, for the first time in our history, a woman was admitted as a delegate to the republican state convention in the person of the eloquent and gifted Mrs. Mary A. Livermore.

It is a warfare, however, where no retreat can be sounded, and until the right is conceded the yearly appeal and agitation are as certain as the seasons.

In passing through Wyoming territory recently it was gratifying to hear from Governor Hoyt a testimony to the beneficent effect of woman suffrage there, in the interest of morality and good government. The governor mentioned as a surprise the fact that no woman had yet made application to him for office. Not that any reason exists why competent women should not hold office, yet it shows how little personal ambition has been stimulated by the attainment of the right to vote.

A few days ago at Olympia, in Washington territory, where it was my privilege to mingle with the members of the legislature in a social way, I expressed my hope that before the territory was ready to be admitted as a state, the constitution would provide for equal suffrage and thereby avoid the agitation its omission was sure to entail. When we remember how difficult it is to eradicate a wrong once crystallized in organic law and how absurdly binding bad precedents are we cannot overrate the importance of a young state guarding in the beginning against such manifest injustice. But for the shortsightedness and unwillingness to compromise principle shown by the framers of the United States constitution, in allowing a recognition and protection of slavery in its famous obnoxious clauses, the long degradation of our politics and the incalculable sufferings of our civil war would have been averted.

A last refuge of many intelligent people, who are too intelligent to repeat the old objections, and yet not ready to accept impartial suffrage, is the plea that the franchise is too broadly exercised already and should be limited. Although this is the essence of toryism and a distrust of the great principle that a republic is of the people, by the people and for the people, it is the fashion of many to proclaim it when the claims of woman are urged.

In the first place if it were true that suffrage should be limited, the answer is, that when the same limits apply to men and women alike there will be no ground for complaint on the score of injustice to women. At present the objection is irrelevant and impertinent, not touching the question at issue.

In the second place, is the objection to universal suffrage a sound one?

The underlying principle of our great experiment of self government is that "government derives its just power from the consent of the governed," which includes the humblest member of society. Not from the consent of the rich, of the educated, of the strongest; but of the governed. It was a momentous experiment based upon an abiding faith in human nature, a conviction that the average wisdom of all is safer than that of any portion, however favored. It took into consideration poverty and ignorance, trusting to the innate desire of humanity for order and good government. It was assumed that although the principle might be severely tested, as enlightenment increased fostered by popular education, government would improve and the responsibilities of the ballot have an elevating effect.

So our national experiment was launched upon the broadest principles of justice, and although the framers of the government were inconsistent in not embodying in the constitution the principles enunciated in the declaration of independence and applying them impartially without distinction of sex or race, the declaration will last for all time because it is as broad as humanity. Partially as the experiment has been applied, and although Europe has poured into our midst hordes of ignorance, poverty and criminality to be assimilated, the nation has stood the strain marvelously. Wisdom is justified of her children. We have undergone commotions that would wreck monarchies; and in every great crisis what has saved us? Not presidents, nor capitalists, nor scholars, but it is the uprising of the whole people—the ground-swell of popular feeling—that always decides the issue in the interest of right and safety. Talk as we may of the Irish or colored vote, each class has the right to represent itself, no matter if its representatives are unsavory or bad. Nor can the virtue and intelligence of the country afford not to have ignorance and poverty send their representatives to speak for them.

These are the warning signs that indicate to all eyes the magnitude of the degradation in our midst. We cannot afford to overlook or forget them. Inasmuch as the dial's hand shows their increase, so much more has the alarm to be sounded and regenerating influences set to work to rescue society which otherwise lulled in a fancied security might awake too late. Upon the walls of our representative government let the whole nation's figure be thrown and the shadows as prominent as the lights. Republicanism cannot only bear the trial but cannot spare it. We are too far on the voyage to put back. The ship has incurred its chiefest dangers because too many of its crew are kept under the hatches. Let them up into the day. Welcome woman to the rights and responsibilities of an untrammeled ballot. There is great need of constant agitation in this young state of Oregon until your object is attained. And it not only benefits woman. All moral effort based on fundamental principles elevates the entire community.

New England owes its pre-eminent intellectual and moral position to the constant conflict of ideas. While, unfortunately, the church so largely reflects the average public sentiment and too often finds little difficulty in being at peace in the presence of sin, provided the sin is popular, the true spirit of the gospel is to be found in the various humanitarian reforms of the day.

In a new and growing country like this, where the wonderful resources of nature are developing so rapidly and wealth comes easily, there is danger that the material may overshadow the moral progress.

Professor Bryce, the English member of parliament, who has been traveling with our party—a most acute and sympathetic observer—was much impressed by this tendency.

Such associations as yours and other kindred purposes have therefore a regenerating and uplifting influence. Unfortunate is the community where there are no isms. Because of the crudities and extravagances of well-meaning but overzealous friends, who attach themselves to every reform, do not allow timid conscientious to excuse themselves from their share in the work. When the sole objection to a movement is alleged personal dislike for its advocates, be sure that the objectors have no answer for your arguments. Hold them to a discussion of principles and do not be drawn aside by personal criticism, the shelter of apathy and opposition.

The great work is to touch conscience by carefully considered and just appeals to the best sentiments of human nature. The statute book will surely second your progress. In days of discouragement, while always come, certain that the cause is nearing its triumph, we can comfort ourselves with Whittier's lines:

> "Thus with somewhat of the seer
> Must the moral pioneer
> From the future borrow—
> Clothe the waste with dreams of grain
> And on the midnight's sky of rain
> Paint the golden morrow."

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.

Fourth Day's Session—New Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year.

The convention of the Woman Suffrage Association of Oregon again assembled yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, in Y. M. C. A. hall, with Chairman Heroy presiding. The reading of minutes was omitted till 2 P. M. The session was mainly engaged in conferring as to the best distribution of county work, in compliance with several suggestions of President Heroy, published in his annual message. The meeting was spirited and harmonious, and the ladies devoted themselves strictly to business. The nomination of county workers was partly agreed upon, and were to be completed in the afternoon. Adjourned till 2 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The meeting was opened promptly at 2 P. M., President Heroy. Miss Maggie Foster, secretary, read the minutes of preceding meetings, which were duly approved.

The convention then proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. H. A. Loughary, of Yamhill, was elected president, and Mrs. A. S. Duniway, of Multnomah, vice president. Miss Maggie Foster, of Linn, was elected secretary; and Miss Annie Fearnside, of Multnomah, corresponding secretary; treasurer, Mrs. E. Johnson, of Multnomah; executive committee, Mrs. H. A. Loughary, Mrs. A. S. Duniway, Miss M. T. Foster, Miss A. Fearnside and Mrs. C. A. Coburn.

On motion the retiring president escorted the president-elect to the platform and presented her to the convention. In a few appropriate remarks she acknowledged the honor conferred upon her, and assured the convention that no efforts to further the cause of woman suffrage would be spared by her.

A vote of thanks was offered to president Heroy for his uniform kindness and consideration while occupying the chair, and for services rendered by him in that capacity. Mr. Heroy replied very happily, and regretted that his absence had been so great in promoting the movement.

Mrs. Dr. Owen was called upon and read an excellent address entitled "Woman as a Physician."

A vote of thanks was tendered THE OREGONIAN for its fair and full reports of the convention, and to other journals in Portland for their kind mention of the proceedings. Dr. C. H. Hall of Salem was offered a vote of thanks for his kindness in attending and addressing the meeting; also Wm. Lloyd Garrison, Jr., of Boston, Judge J. J. Collins of Dallas, and all other speakers, for their generous assistance. The City Choir club and Mrs. F. Owen, also were thanked for music kindly supplied by them.

Rev. Mr. West closed in admirable essay by a spirited eulogy of Mrs. Duniway, to which that lady responded with a feeling tribute to Wm. Lloyd Garrison-senior, Lucretia Mott, Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and others, beside whose noble work she said, her own efforts were quite insignificant.

The following names were suggested by Mrs. Duniway as vice-presidents of the different counties of Oregon: Miss Maggie Foster of Linn, Mrs J. DeVore Johnson of Clackamas, Mrs R. Eaton of Union, Miss Mary Douthitt of Grant, Mrs. J. S. Shaw of Umatilla, Mrs. M. A. Dalton of Multnomah, Mrs. M. Minto of Marion, Mrs. A. M. Martin of Yamhill, Mrs. C. Dowell of Wasco, Mrs. Inez Parker of Clatsop, Miss Kate Thornton of Jackson, Mrs. Lottie Ream of Lane, Miss Cora Bayley of Benton, Miss Lucy P. Hay of Douglas, Mrs. Warden of Josephine, Mrs. Emma Hicker of Coos and Curry, Mrs. M. O. Moore of Lake, Miss Lottie Cleaver of Baker, Miss Ellen Scott of Washington, Miss Allen of Polk, Miss Maggie Fearnside of Tillamook and Mrs. Eugene Semple of Columbia.

On motion, the meeting adjourned until 7:30 P.M.

EVENING SESSION.

Convention called to order at 7:30 o'clock, with Mrs. H. A. Loughary, president-elect, in the chair. The exercises opened with a short address by J. F. D'Arcy. Rev. H. K. Hines followed in an excellent speech. Next on the programme was a vocal duet by Mrs. H. W. Scott, and Mrs. Ellen Chamberlin. The selection was a serenade by Schubert and was very well rendered, Mrs. H. Y. Thompson presided at the piano very effectually during the rendition of the duet.

Rev. J. A. Gray was next introduced and delivered an eloquent address, wherein he cited Richard Grant White as saying that a deplorable ignorance existed among American women in regard to political affairs; that not three women out of ten in the select class of American women in the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Albany or Boston could tell the name of the governor of the state in which they resided or the congressman who was senator from their district. He further quoted Richard Grant White as saying that almost every woman living in the United States during the civil war had one or more relatives either killed or wounded, and yet were those women to be interrogated as to the principles for which those men fought, but a small proportion could answer correctly. Rev. Gray said he hoped this statement was untrue, that he blushed to find any statement made like that derogatory to American women and hoped the time was coming when the woman would be accorded equal privileges under the law.

Mrs. Duniway said in explanation she would say a few words in regard to White's article where that quotation appeared. She said that Mr. White might not have had the opportunity to converse with intelligent women; that perhaps his intercourse was with that class of women whose elevation to society was comparatively recent and whose early education was neglected; that from mingling with such society, he might have been led to write the article wherein the quoted words appear; that there were thousands of American women, good, substantial farmers' wives, who were competent to pass upon any question of politics or history that might be submitted to them.

After Mrs. Duniway concluded Mrs. H. W. Scott and Miss Ellen Chamberlin favored the audience with a duet entitled "Bird of Beauty," which was given in a pleasing manner, Mrs. H. Y. Thompson accompanied the ladies on the piano.

Rabbi May followed in a few well chosen observations which indicated that he had bestowed much thought upon the subject.

Miss Shelton, of Olympia, W. T. invited the members of the association to that city.

The president announced that a business meeting will be held this morning at 10 o'clock.

The convention then adjourned.

TURBULENCE IN IRELAND.

So far are Mr. Gladstone's measures from having brought peace to Ireland that in fact there is now more disturbance than any time since the land agitation took its present form. The land bill elaborated by Mr. Gladstone with so much care, is repudiated by the land league, and seditious disturbance having resulted, Parnell and other popular leaders have been arrested by the government. Rioting is general throughout Ireland, and authority, having exhausted other means, is now driven to the logic of coercive force. The theory of the land league is that all the land in Ireland belongs in equity to the tenant; and this, of course, is regarded in England as naked confiscation. The league, instead of using its organization for enabling the tenant to extract all possible benefit from the land act, has adopted so radical a policy that even the liberals and land reformers of England are driven into opposition. Of course the aristocratic conservatism of the country, which stands on prescription and vested rights, is intensely embittered against Gladstone for his concessions to the league, and is now ready to take advantage of the failure of conciliation which it had hoped and predicted. An English letter written from this standpoint, says: "Gladstone has now to show the English people that the policy of concession having failed, he is able to govern Ireland with a mailed hand. The premier's position is seriously weakened by his own course when he was in the opposition. He was then in the habit of declaring that the agitators were justified in demanding sweeping reforms; that coercion was a weapon that ought to be cast into the political lumber-room, and that the Irish should be governed by the statesmanship of the nineteenth century. He has tried that sort of statesmanship on a big scale. It has not conciliated the people. The forcible-feeble policy has failed; and what the outcome in Ireland will be is more than anybody can tell."

The land leaguers, to support their claim that the lands of the country belong in equity to the tenants and not to alien or resident landlords, go back to the unjust confiscations of two, three, or five centuries ago, and assert, in substance, that what was robbery then cannot be a basis of just title to property now. This is met by the answer that if the doctrine of original claims is to prevail in Ireland against modern title-deeds, Irish property-holders in the United States should, to be consistent, make prompt and full restoration to the North American Indians. It would undoubtedly be impossible, in this age of enlightened justice, to acquire lands by the violent methods employed centuries ago by the British in Ireland; but it is perfectly clear that titles of so long standing, though confessedly acquired through injustice, cannot now be overturned. The British government will protect property rights in Ireland, and any rising against them will be suppressed by all the power which authority can wield. The leaders of the land league are retarding instead of helping forward the cause of land reform.

The truth is that the land act which Mr. Gladstone has given to the Irish people, but which they reject with a scornful contempt of a reasonable measure of justice and conciliation, is a much more liberal one than they would have dared to hope for two or three years ago. They refuse to accept it as a peace offering, and Parnell tells them that even if it does give them advantages, they ought to decline them and "agitate" for more. The logic of the position of the land league will stop nothing short of the severance of union with England and the demand of "Ireland for the Irish." All this is a dream of turbulence and folly. It delays practical adjustment of the land question, which ought to be carried on in accord with rational principles, and places weapons of great power in the hands of those who oppose all adjustment as leading to confiscation. Oppressive land laws are felt in England and Scotland as well as in Ireland; and when Gladstone drew the Irish land bill he well knew it would not be possible to grant as fair and liberal terms to Ireland and refuse the same principles to the other parts of the kingdom. He stated in his recent speech at Leeds that he was ready to do for Scotland and England what he does for Ireland; but this, taken in connection with the disturbances in Ireland resulting from the irrational course of the land league, may weaken his power so far that the government will pass out of his hands. Such result is now freely predicted by writers on British affairs; nor does it appear as at all improbable. The ruling class of the United Kingdom is in fact the landed aristocracy. Besides, Mr. Gladstone is growing very old and cannot possibly remain in active life much longer, and no one else himself could possibly hold his party together.

From every point of view the conduct of the Irish land league seems ill advised and irrational. It is a blow at friends who have done all that was possible to introduce reforms, and it forces Mr. Gladstone to proceed, with vigorous and thorough measures against those who have adopted what can appear to all parties in England as nothing less than a course of disloyalty, sedition and rebellion.

WOMAN'S ENFRANCHISEMENT.

This term does not simply mean the extension of the right of suffrage to woman, though it is too often used in that restricted sense. It properly signifies the extension of woman's sphere of activity and opportunity. To just a few who are favorable to woman's enfranchisement in the larger sense, it has always seemed that too much stress has been laid on suffrage. As a feature of the "agitation" for a wider sphere for woman, advocacy of suffrage may and doubtless does help to break down the exclusiveness and conventionality which hitherto have shut woman out from opportunities that ought justly to be hers. Yet suffrage in itself will do little. The great problems of life are problems with which suffrage does not deal. There may be success without suffrage, but none without labor. Voting is not meat, drink, or raiment, wealth, friends, or happiness. The right to vote, either in itself or through its exercise, creates no opportunity, as all who now vote know very well by their own experience. If this were the end of effort for woman's enfranchisement, as many seem to suppose, it would hardly be worth while to go on with it. We are not opposed to woman suffrage. On the contrary we should willingly help to establish that right for woman. But we should not do it with the supposition that it was the one sole thing which would open for woman an easy and flowery path through the world's difficulties. Woman's position and woman's lot would be unchanged by it, except in so far as it might help to dispel the foolish and unjust notion that there are occupations from which, though capable, she ought to be excluded, on the ground that the only thing "becoming" to her, if unmarried, is to wait for a husband, or if married, to exist without any purpose whatever.

But marriage will sometimes take place. Let us call it a necessary evil, which must involve, at some time in their lives a majority of the human race. For woman marriage is incompatible with any absorbing professional employment; for the mother of young children owes her first allegiance to them, and cannot give over their care to any one else. A journal lying before us makes a remark here which is much in point. As a rule, it says, celibacy and active occupation for woman must go together. Costly professional studies, or the occupation which is their result, will be interrupted by marriage. Men anxious to establish a home are not generally desirous of placing at its head a person whose interests lie outside of it.

But, on the other hand, it is well added here, that there are useful and lucrative arts which women may learn, and the prosecution of which marriage need not greatly interrupt, since they are those which can be carried on at home. There are others for which unmarried women can alone find leisure, but which may be learned without great outlay. It is to these two classes that women may naturally look for work, and as they are usually light employments, those practicing them should be freed from male competition. We trust the day is not far distant when this last reform shall be accomplished. Woman's opportunities have been too long circumscribed by unreasonable prejudice. The true meaning of woman's enfranchisement is extension of her sphere of activity and opportunity to the full bound of her capacity. When one thinks of it, it is a reproach to the boasted spirit of the age that the social evolution through which this is mainly to be accomplished has been so tardy. It has taken the world a long time to get rid of the idea that woman's place in the economy of human affairs is an inferior one. In primitive society this is her uniform condition. Through many causes there has in this particular been a remarkable survival of the past. Not the least of these causes has been blind adherence to the authority of the instructions of St. Paul, under which woman is consigned to a very inferior place and submission thereto enforced as a religious duty.

In connection with the suggested improvement of the Willamette and Columbia rivers, it is interesting to know what has been done at other places. Several years ago the people of Adelaide, New South Wales, a city of 27,000 inhabitants found that there harbor was not deep enough to accomodate the ships of the world and that they were in danger of losing an important commerce. The people, unaided by the government, built a dredge costing eighty thousand pounds or four hundred thousand dollars, with the capacity to hold eight hundred tons of scrapings and so staunch that she could be taken to rough, deep water in the extreme lower bay to dump. While scooping out the bottom of the harbor a ledge of limestone rock was encountered, and with a steel cutter or scrape on the dredge mentioned above, a channel two hundred feet wide and five hundred feet long was cut through it to an average depth of six feet. In the Columbia and Willamette rivers there is no such formidable obstruction—nothing, in fact that cannot be removed by scraping or ordinary cheap dredging; but the bars partially renew themselves each year and each year must be removed. An annual expenditure of $75,000 will do the work and do it so thoroughly that we need never again hear of the bars as obstructions to navigation.

Next to French newspapers those published in Ireland are entitled to precedence in regard to lack of knowledge concerning this country. The Dublin Express announces that "the murderer Guiteau, who is a native of Columbia, will be tried according to the laws of that state;" while the Belfast Whig informs its readers that "the late president was not, as many people supposed at the time of his election, either an obscure or an illiterate man."

In THE OREGONIAN'S extra sheet of to-day will be found a great variety of telegraphic and other news and much excellent matter of a miscellaneous character. In extent and variety of contents this extra sheet is almost a complete newspaper in itself.

James A. Waymire, formerly of Oregon, has been appointed judge of the superior court of California, vice Judge Hayne resigned. Mr. Waymire was from Yamhill, subsequently he lived in Portland. He went to California about a dozen years ago.

Minnesota returns Mr. Windom to the senate. He is a very proper and efficient man for the position.

MATTERS SOCIAL.

The opera and the mechanics' fair have absorbed interest during the week past. There never has been a time in the history of Portland when it was so full of visitors in its homes. Every portion of the state, from Jacksonville to Baker City, is represented among friends and relatives here. Railways finished within the last twelve months, connecting remote points in Eastern Washington, have brought visitors who have not been here for years and many who never before saw Portland. Attention to guests has taken the time of most families to the exclusion of social events. Following is our usual resume:

PERSONAL.

Mrs. N. Baum, of Albany, is a guest of Mrs. J. Fleischner.

Mrs. Lieut. James Ollo has gone to Camp Spokan to join her husband.

Miss Florence Sheets, of Walla Walla, is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Beck.

Miss Mary Woodworth, of Salem is the guest of Miss Sallie Clarke.

Mr. J. C. Morrison, of the "Cosmopolitan," at The Dalles is in the city.

Misses Annie Hill and Lizzie Clark, of Walla Walla are visiting friends here.

Mrs. A. J. Megler and sister, Miss Jewett, of Astoria, are at the St. Charles.

Miss Carrie Harris, of Corvallis is the guest of Miss Brenner at the Esmond.

Miss Alida Zieber left Saturday last for San Jose to visit Mrs. Zieber's mother.

Hon. John C. Davenport and family, of Colfax, W. T., will spend the winter here.

Mrs. Lieut. Bascue, of Fort Klamath, is visiting her sister Mrs. E. L. Merrill, at Walla Walla.

Mr. L. Therkelsen and family arrived by the Oregon from their summer's tour through Europe.

Mr. Ad. Wolfe, manager of Lipman & Co's establishment, has returned from an extended eastern trip.

Miss Lizzie Watkins, of Victoria, B. C., is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. D. Smith, corner Twelfth and Yamhill.

Miss Lulie Knight, daughter of Rev. P. S. Knight, has been visiting this week at the old homestead, near Vancouver.

Miss Emma Stewart, of Vancouver, returned home Saturday from Yamhill county, where she has been visiting for some time.

Miss Clark and Miss Jennie Clark of Albany are guests of their cousin, Mrs. J. B. Wyatt, and will remain here several weeks.

Mr. Adolph Rosenthal, formerly of this city, writes from St. Louis under date of 10th inst., that he expects to be here in March.

Mrs. B. L. Sharstein and Mrs. R. R. Rees and daughters, of Walla Walla, have gone to Olympia to stay until close of the legislative session.

Mr. Chas. Nickell, editor of the Jacksonville Times, and bride (nee Miss Ella Prim), left by the Columbia for a short visit in San Francisco.

Mr. J. E. Sisson for two years with Messers Shindler & Chadbourne, left by the Columbia for San Francisco, where he will remain permanently.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Adams, of Salem, left by the Columbia for San Jose, where they will stay during the winter, in hopes of benefitting Mr. Adams health.

Capt. Frank D. Baldwin, 5th infantry, has been assigned to duty at headquarters of the department of the Columbia as judge advocate general of the department.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Birge and daughter returned by the Oregon from a summer's visit in Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, and will leave in a few days for their home in Canyon City.

Chicago Tribune of Oct. 7: Yesterday Hon. M. P. Deady, judge of the U. S. district court of Portland, Or., together with Judges Drummond and Blodgett, and William H. Bradley, clerk of the United States court, lunched with ex-Governor Bross at the Beaurivage. Judge Deady, who is the oldest in term of service of all the district judges, has been in the city for some days. Day before yesterday he visited Lincoln park and the Exposition.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Dr. I. H. Ackerman was married in San Francisco Thursday, to Miss Becky Goldstein, daughter of Mr. E. L. Goldstein.

The Concordia hop Thursday evening was an elegant affair—fine attendance, fine costumes, fine music and a real good lunch.

Mr. D. J. Coleman and Miss Mattie Roberts, of Walla Walla, were married on Wednesday of last week, and left next morning for San Francisco, where they will spend several weeks.

Wednesday evening Mr. Geo. P. Lent, of the firm of Swope & Lent was married to Miss Mary M. Johnson, daughter of Hon. Jacob Johnson, residing on Cason Prairie, near East Portland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Emery, of the Corvallis college.

Lieutenant J. W. Galbraith of the 1st cavalry was married to Miss Hattie Black at Boise City, Idaho, a few days ago. The bride was one of Boise City's most accomplished young ladies, and the groom an officer of worth and popularity. Their residence will be at Fort Boise.

Last Tuesday evening Capt. Charles W. Trope was married to Miss Nellie F. Meacham, Rev. J. H. Acton officiating. The ceremony was witnessed only by immediate relatives of the family. The couple will leave ato next week for California, where they will spend the winter.

A charming little party took place at Vancouver barracks last Saturday at the residence of Captain and Mrs. Haughey, on the occasion of the sixteenth birthday of their daughter, a favorite there. A large cake, an elegant specimen of art, with a gold ring inside, was cut and impartially distributed among the guests. The ring fell to the lot of Gen. Wheaton's daughter.

The first anniversary of the organization of the Catholic Dramatic and Musical Society was celebrated last Monday evening by the members and their friends with a banquet, preceded by a piano duet by Misses Katie Stewart and Nettie Herman. During the supper a number of regular and volunteer toasts were given and responded to by members of the society in fitting and frequently in eloquent terms. The occasion was also enlivened by the rendition of several songs and instrumental pieces by the ladies and gentlemen present, and, altogether, it was a well managed, recherche affair, of which the members of the society may well be proud.

Salem Social Notes.

Prof. and Mrs. W. A. Chaney of Tillamook are visiting friends in this city.

Mr. Marsh B. Malbry, formerly of this city, is now engaged in business in Blythe, Ontario.

General John F. Miller has returned home after several months' absence in Southern Oregon.

Mr. James A. Rigg and Miss Carrie A. Loughead were married yesterday and took the afternoon train for Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam V. Church have rented the elegant residence formerly occupied by Rev. S. C. Adams and family.

Hon. W. P. Keady, formerly of this city, is now engaged in the Willamette Valley & Coast Railroad Co's office at Corvallis.

Rev. P. S. Knight will start for Olympia on Monday next for a few days' sojourn among the solons of the legislative assembly.

The ladies of the M. E. church are making active preparations for a grand fair and festival to take place on Thanksgiving evening.

Mrs. A. J. Brown has moved back to the city and rented the Kinney place immediately opposite the residence of Mr. M. L. Chamberlin.

Dr. J. A. Payton of Drain's station is in the city. Dr. D. Payton has returned to this city and formed a partnership with Dr. L. L. Rowland.

Miss Buss, sister of Mrs. Jos. Holman, returned to Salem this week after an extended visit among friends and relations in the eastern states.

Hon. E. P. McCornack, clerk of the board of school and commissioners, is expected home to-morrow from an extended trip through Eastern Oregon.

A large number of Salemites will visit Portland to-morrow to be in attendance at the boat race in which the Undine club of this city will participate.

Col. T. Egerton Hogg, the well known capitalist, is en route from New York city to this state, and will probably be a passenger on the incoming steamer.

Master Winters Knight, eldest son of Colonel N. B. Knight, who for many months past has been bedridden with rheumatism in its most violent form, is again able to appear on the streets.

RECEPTION TO REV. MR. CHAMBERS.

The return to Salem on Wednesday evening last of Rev. J. Taylor Chambers, to resume the rectorship of St. Paul's (Episcopal) parish, was made the occasion of a reception tendered him by the members and friends of the congregation at the elegant residence of Mrs. Jos. Holman, on Court street. Mr. Chambers was driven at once to his rooms, attached to the church edifice, where the first pleasant surprise awaited him, the rooms during his absence having been renovated upholstered and refurnished. He was then escorted to Mrs. Holman's residence, where about seventy-five of his friends and acquaintances awaited and welcomed him most cordially on his return to a parish where for three years he labored so earnestly and with such marked success as its rector. Among those invited and in attendance were the following: Ex-Governor and Mrs. S. F. Chadwick, Hon. W. M. Ramsey and wife, Hon. J. J. Murphy and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Albert, Capt. L. S. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. C. Uzafovage, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Edes, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hodgkin, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rockenfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joe. Sellwood, Mrs. C. D. and Bertha Snyder, Mrs. N. B. Knight, Mrs. D. F. Wagner, Mrs. C. S. Woodworth, Mrs. Buckingham, Mrs. W. T. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Allen, Miss Buss, W. T. Bell, Misses Alice and Blanche Bell, J. H. Babbitt, Miss Clara Bray, Miss Emily Heulat, Miss Gertie Jordan, Misses Hattie and Gussie Newton, Miss Radford, Mrs. Ben Strang, Miss Clara Strang, Miss Gracie Adams, Miss Nellie Edes, Misses Adams, Miss Creek, Miss Masterson, Miss Pearl Scott and many others. Refreshments of the choicest varieties were served and with a lavish hand, and the evening throughout was one of unusual sociability and enjoyment. Mr. Chambers will resume his pastoral duties to-morrow.

AUCTION SALES.

Gilman & Co. will sell at 10 this morning at 127 Sixth street, between Washington and Alder, entire furniture, carpets, stoves and kitchenware—a rare chance for bargains.

Richardson, 227 Second street, near Main, will sell horses, saddles and furniture at 10 this morning.

---

THE "BUREAU."—Those who want only pure liquors visit the "Bureau" corner First and Morrison, presided over by that prince of "mixologists," Louis Eppinger. It is decidedly the place of Portland, and gentlemen are always certain to have only the finest liquors obtainable served—and served, too, in a style that cannot fail to please.

It may rain to-morrow. Better get an Umbrella of Woods, the Hatter, to-day.

EYE AND EAR Infirmary and Sanitarium, macadam road, bet. Porter and Wood. Office, N. W. cor. First and Washington. Dr. J. B. Pilkington, oculist.

More cloaks at Mellis Bros. & Co.'s than at any other three stores in town.

Mocha Coffee House and Restaurant, G. Voss, manager. New, neat and inviting. Opposite Union Block.

Eastern Oysters every steamer at Keith's.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The Attendance Continues Large—List of Children Contributing to the Drawing and Exhibit, Etc.

Still the attendance at the Mechanics' Pavilion is large. Those to whom the exhibits have ceased to be novel come nightly to hear the band and to see the people, and find in these a pleasant entertainment.

Yesterday afternoon the Indian children from the training school at Forest Grove—seventy-six in number—came in, and they will be in attendance at the fair this afternoon and to-morrow.

In several particulars the exhibits have been improved since the opening of the fair. T. A. Stott of Washington county has added some fine potatoes and citrons to the vegetable exhibit. A. R. Shipley has added ten varieties of potatoes and two varieties of onions to the vegetable exhibit and several fine samples of grapes, pears and apples to the fruit exhibit. All these were grown on Mr. Shipley's place in Clackamas county, near Oswego. Col. J. W. Nesmith of Polk county, exhibits a lot of potatoes of the Peerless variety which exceed anything heretofore displayed in Oregon. Three of the collection weigh ten pounds, the larger of the trio going above three and a half. Sexton & Lind exhibit a fine collection of garden vegetables grown on the sandy soil back of East Portland. G. W. Hunt, of Whittaker, Marion county, shows a fine collection of pears, and A. M. Smith, of Buena Vista, some Bartlett pears of the second growth this season. The editor of the Spokan Falls Chronicle makes an exhibit of wheat, oats, barley, timothy, etc., grown in the vicinity of Spokan Falls. This tardy display is very fine, and valuable as illustrating the value of eastern Washington soil for grain.

A. G. WALLING.

The printer, has made wonderful progress in the past few years in city in the line he has followed here since early in the '60s, but in the lithographic art, which he added to his business two years ago. Our leading merchants, bankers and others who have desired work of this character and were obliged to send east for the same, take advantage of the opportunity offered by Mr. Walling. Since he added the lithographic feature to his business, improvements have been made from time to time, making the work better than when first introduced. Terms equal to those given by eastern lithographers can be effected with Walling, whose facilities are such that the work can be done fully as cheap. In the display presses are operated, and visitors may there see how the prints are made. Samples of lithographing can be had either at the fair or in Mr. Walling's office, First and Ash streets.

H. P. GREGORY & CO.

Make an exhibit of machinery in machinery hall whose intrinsic value is above $12,000, far greater than any other in the building. The main house of Gregory & Co. is in San Francisco, the Portland establishment being a branch. Another branch is located at Sydney, N. S. W. The business carried on by these various houses reaches immense proportions and extends over the entire Pacific coast and throughout Australia. The firm directly imports wood and iron working machinery and engineers' supplies, and holds the sole Pacific coast agency for many of the leading manufactories of the United States, including such manufacturers as Bement & Sons, Philadelphia; Fay & Co., Cincinnati. The standing of the house of H. P. Gregory & Co. is such that the different manufacturers prefer to deal through them altogether, and their arrangements are so made, that parties in this country can obtain information as to the several manufactures, circulars, price lists, etc., as well by addressing the Portland house as by waiting thirty days for answers from the east, in the final purchase of machinery actually lower prices, when freights on single machines are considered, may be obtained by dealing here.

Mr. Stewart McClure, the resident partner, has taken a great deal of interest in this fair and has arranged one of the finest exhibits. The enterprise of the firm is displayed by its importing a handsome Clapp & Jones steam fire engine especially for the exhibition. This make of fire engines has received the first premiums at every fair at which they have been exhibited. It is a handsome machine and attracts the attention of all firemen and machinists who visit the fair. The exhibit consists in part of an immense Fay & Co. band-saw in operation, cutting scroll and cornice designs—a constant delight to wood workers. A mortising machine of the same make shows to advantage the immense difference between the labor one chisel, and mallet work of a few years ago and the present rapid mechanical method. A Tanite Co.'s emery-grinder, running at the rate of 2700 revolutions per minute, throws upward a shower of sparks, dimming the electric light, as a piece of steel is held against one of its wheels. A wood boring machine, tenoning machine, a four side moulding machine, a dove-tailing machine, two planers and matchers and one surfacer. Disston's circular saw with solid and inserted teeth, long crosscut and scroll saws, Perrin & Disston's band saws, Judson & Pickering's engine governors, Korting's injectors, Blake's steam pump in operation feed the immense boiler which supplies steam for all the machinery in the exhibit. Their machinery in the hall is driven by three Payne engines, one of which is entered for competition.

In rubber goods, the New York Belting and Packing Company, is represented by a pyramid of the celebrated spider hose, samples of belting and packing and two immense rubber railway car springs. Another thing worthy of notice is a Perry centrifugal pump of 650 gallons capacity per minute—also at work. The Gould Manufacturing Company is represented in this exhibit by a variety of pumps for home, farm and ships use. There are also a great many minor articles which go to make up a complete collection of representatives of modern improvement and invention.

Too much praise cannot be awarded this house for the public spirit and enterprise displayed in the great outlay of time and money necessary to make such an exhibition. Its warerooms at No. 43 Front street contain the largest number and greatest variety of wood-working machines to be found north of San Francisco. Its intimate connection with so many large manufacturing houses and the immense trade flowing to its various branches combine to give it great advantage over all others in supplying machines or machinery, or putting up new wood or iron working establishments entire, at the lowest price and on the shortest possible notice. It is comparatively a young house, so far as its immediate establishment in this city is concerned, but it brings the financial standing and business vigor which accumulates with years of experience and business success.

The display of

OREGON STOVES

Made by Goldsmith & Loewenberg is one of the finest industrial exhibits in the pavilion, and deservedly attracts much attention and comment. Thirty kinds of cooking and heating stoves are displayed, all of modern pattern and the finest workmanship, and all made at the Oregon Stove Works in South Front street in this city. Every sort of heating stove, from the most simple iron box for wood to the elaborate and handsome base burner, and every kind of cooker, from the little cottage pattern to the large hotel range, are made in this fine establishment, which is owned and managed by Goldsmith & Loewenberg. Fifty men are constantly employed, and the daily turn-out is forty stoves. Oregon iron and Scotch pig are combined in the castings which are not excelled in any stoves made anywhere. The finish of these stoves and their furniture, also made in Portland, is equal to the product of the very best eastern factories. The market for these stoves is not in Portland alone, but throughout the northwest. They are taken by the trade and by the people in preference to eastern made stoves, and never fail to give satisfaction. Goldsmith & Loewenberg in establishing and maintaining this industry are doing an important thing. It uses largely of materials produced in the state, and gives employment indirectly to more than one hundred men.

ALBERT BARTSCH.

The Steinway dates its origin many years back and its makers have added improvements to it from time to time, so that the instrument of to-day is as complete as it is possible to make it. The Kranich & Bach pianos, though not so generally known as the Steinway, has now a position equal to any other make. Of the agent for these instruments we can but say that a cotemporary truthfully remarks and which we quote: "The long experience of Mr. Bartsch in the piano business, enables him to judge accurately of the best instruments. His name in connection with the sale of a piano is sufficient guaranty for its excellence, as he carries none but the best, and among the many who have bought his instruments are none who are not more than pleased with their bargains."

D. W. PRENTICE & CO.

Are located this year on the south side of the gallery. As usual, they take the lead in the musical line. Half a dozen pianos, several organs and a whole assortment of small musical instruments form an attractive exhibit and a series of solos by good performers upon good instruments afford entertainment between pieces by the band. Prentice & Co. commenced business in Portland only a few years ago, have chased away half a dozen competitors and now do the largest business in music and musical goods north of San Francisco. They are agents for the Weber, Haines Bros. & Nugent pianos, the Estey and Sterling organs and the best makes of violins, band instruments, etc. Almost all kinds of musical instruments, a full list of sheet music and everything in the musical line may be found at their establishment on First street, between Washington and Stark.

DILG & EVARTS

Exhibit a "Common Sense" fruit dryer of their own invention and manufacture. Last season they dried in thirteen days 13,340 pounds of prunes and plums at the East Portland dryer with this machine, and turned the fruit out in fine condition. It is as its name indicates, a common-sense affair, and has no costly or elaborate machinery to get out of order. The fruit is laid on wire slides, one above another, in a small chamber and heated by pipes from a furnace beneath. The apparatus is simple, effective and cheap.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Of this city make an exhibit in the eastern end of the main gallery, which is one of the most attractive features of the fair. Arranged like library reference files of newspapers are more than 200 specimens of fine hand drawing, each bearing the name, age and class of the author. The subjects cover a wide range of industrial and artistic designs, and are in almost every case original. While these drawings do not approach a high artistic standard, and are only offered as the work of school children, they illustrate careful and thorough instruction on the part of the teacher, Miss Turner, and taste and industry on the part of many of the pupils. Following are the names of the pupils contributing this collection:

W. H. Johnson, Mary C. DeLin, W. H. Gambell, Aurora Alice Eland, Georgia Carter, Lillie Cook, Fannie Grow, Frank Drake, Annie Fahle, Minnie Brylant, Sherman Ritchey, Walter H. Dodd, Chas. A. Straus, Lillie B. Davey, Lulu Byrks, Sophie Holman, Camilla A. Coburn, Kate A. Wallace, Wm. K. Smith, Annie M. Kellogg, Emma Burgheimer, Lizzie M. Gibbs, May E. Reynolds, Henry W. Hogan, Curtis Holcomb, Viola D. Thayer, Chas. W. Seaquist, Norman Biles, Wm. G. Eliot, Jr., D. L. Williams, Ralph W. Hoyt, George W. BRIEF MENTION.

The Hendricks truss is displayed in the gallery—west end.

H. B. Chase, taxidermist, makes an exhibit of his handiwork.

Bayer & Stauch have samples of Native cutlery on exhibition.

Wm. Beck & Son have selections from the variety stock of goods.

Cardwell & Bennett exhibit in the gallery samples of ladies' shoes.

McLoran's mills are represented by a display of their grist in sacks.

Cran & Co. have a case of samples from their millinery department.

Irving & Co.'s soaps in many forms, are exhibited on the ground floor.

Mr. E. H. Gamman's displays a complete dinner set of Japanese plate.

The Oregon stove factory, show a variety of their own manufactured goods.

Lot Taylor's spring bed occupies a position near the flower garden entrance.

Thompson, DeHart & Co., occupy their former stand and make a good showing.

L. G. Pfunder, florist, makes a handsome exhibit of fancy baskets and frames for flowers.

Allisky & Hegele confectioners, present a number of articles of their own manufacture.

Dayton, Hall & Lameerson, hardware dealers, make a display of goods in their line.

Dunburg & Elg, electricians, make an exhibit of their own special work on the ground floor.

J. Donnerberg's sign in glittering gas jets, shows the position and business he is engaged in.

H. Sinsheimer has an exhibit of pianos and organs in the gallery besides other dealers in these goods.

S Lipman & Co. through one their most competent window show workers, make a fine display in the gallery.

Dr. Henley occupies a position near the main entrance to the floral garden, with an extensive lot of samples of his laxative Oregon Kidney Cure, etc.

Perhaps it is not generally known that any one can get a nice cup of coffee or tea, with a sandwich or a plate of oysters, if they wish, at the dining room of the Pavilion at noon. Some of the ladies are always in attendance to wait upon customers.

FOR THE GRANT CUP.

Race between the "Undines" of Salem and the Portland Rowing Association to-day.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp, a four-oared race will come off between the Undine Rowing Club of Salem and the Portland Rowing Association. It is to be regretted that the Willamettes have no crew to enter. Having given Mr. Inzaterdall the privilege of exhibiting their new shell at the Mechanics' Fair, they were necessarily obliged to content themselves by becoming mere spectators. Rumor says that the little race on the 1st instant dampened their ardor, but such is not the case, and the W.'s are second in pluck to none. The Undines deserve great credit in coming down from Salem with their heavy shell, and, considering the short time in which they have had to practice, they are entitled to praise. They will use the old "Water Witch," recently overhauled, which has such a good record on these waters, having never been beaten. Their crew consists of the following: Herbert Hatch, stroke; A. Grant, 3; Fred P. Ellis, 2; Willard Herren, bow.

The Portlands will use their paper shell, and have entered the same crew that won the Cran cup on the 1st, and who have been practicing a little during the past three weeks. It consists of J. F. Henderson, stroke; Chas. J. B. Malarkey, 3; Wm. Smith, 2; Hamilton Corbett, bow. The prize is the cup that was presented in 1879, when Gen. Grant visited the city. It was won then by the P. R. A. In 1880 the "Maple Leafs" claimed it, and they having disbanded it has reverted to the original Grant committee, who have put it up again to be rowed for to-day. It must be won three consecutive years to entitle the holder to actual possession.

Should the water be in good condition we may expect some quick time. The course is from the foot of Pine street to Ross Island and back, three miles with a turn.

Members of the P. R. A. are requested to be at their boat-house at half-past ... to render any assistance that may be needed.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

"Il Trovatore" at matinee this afternoon and "Carmen" to-night.

In motion of the U. S. district attorney the case against Jerry Jacobson, for selling liquor to Indians, was dismissed yesterday.

To-morrow morning Mr. Hugh Talbot, the tenor of the Fabbri troupe willing the offertoire in Trinity church, "Then shalt thou not leave his Soul in Hell," from the "Messiah."

Mr. Villard has handed Dr. J. L. Hallett his check for a handsome amount in appreciation of the latter's efficient service as superintendent of construction of The Dalles division.

Henrichsen & Greenberg, the jewelers, have had the ceiling of their establishment handsomely frescoed. There are two allegorical paintings of Night and Morning, executed with delicacy and rare artistic finish.

A WORD TO ADVERTISERS.

Advertising pays providing it is done legitimately. If you have a good article that you can sell for less than your neighbor can, let the public know it, and self-interest, if nothing else, will induce them to patronize you; but don't lie nor advertise what you haven't got. You may humbug a man once, but you can't do it the second time. One of the best illustrations of what honest, judicious advertising will do that we know of is the case of Woods, the Hatter. It is just one year since he opened his hat store under the Odd Fellows Temple, and to-day he is doing the greater part of the hat trade of Portland,—all owing to letting the public know what he had on hand. Selling a first-class article at a small profit and no humbugging. It is true, Woods keeps the largest stock in his line of any house in Portland. He tells his hats so fast that his stock is continually getting replenished. The consequence is, his goods are always fresh and never seedy or store-worn. His styles are the neatest and latest, and as old Rip Van Winkle said: "May Woods, the Hatter, live long and prosper."

NEW BOOKS.

The following new books received and added to the Portland library:

The Pocket Rifle; by J. T. Trowbridge. Illustrated.

Bachelor Bluff, his Opinions, Sentiments and Disputations; by Oliver Bell Bunce.

THE AVERILL MIXED PAINT.
Beauty, Durability and Economy Combined.

The attention of consumers is called to the superior quality of the AVERILL MIXED PAINTS, which have been used nearly twenty years with great satisfaction, and for the following reasons: Its DURABILITY is acknowledged to exceed any other paint. Its BEAUTY and BRILLIANCY of finish are incomparable, even leading many to believe that varnish is employed in its manufacture. It can be washed or scrubbed without damage, retaining its original lustre—fire-proof to a high degree. Its convenience commends it to all—ready for use; any man, woman or child can use it.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 22, 1881.

MATTERS AT OLYMPIA.

Detailed Account of Proceedings in the Legislature.

OLYMPIA, W. T., Oct. 19, 1881.

A very worthy object was presented to the lower house this morning in the shape of a petition from the Sisters of Charity, who have the management of the House of Providence situated at Vancouver, W. T. The petition sets forth that during its time the institution has educated 950 orphans of both sexes, has saved 604 paupers from starvation; cared for 30 old people, and given medical attention to 1592 sick persons, making in all 3176 persons assisted in one way or the other. The petition was presented by Mr. Dillon and on motion of Mr. Kuhn the petition was referred to the committee on ways, means and claims with instructions to report by bill or otherwise.

The difference between the house and council with regard to pay of certain clerks, seems to have been amicably adjusted through a committee of conference, and the pay has now been settled at $8 per day which is considered reasonable.

Council bill 5, providing for relief of Allen Weir, late chief clerk of the council for services performed in organizing that body, which had originally appropriated $50, but which the council had cut down to $13, was brought before the lower house to-day and provoked considerable discussion.

The report of the house committee recommended that the bill do not pass. Mr. Kuhn pointed out the justice of the claim, and contended that it was not a matter of former precedent, but as to whether the territory would pay its just claim or not.

Several other members took part in the discussion, after which the report of the committee was adopted, thus killing the bill.

Ayes—Alexander, Cahn, Cornwall, Dillon, Freeman, Holcomb, Judson, Karr, Kincaid, Preston, Smith of King, Smith of Klickitat, Smith of Whitman, Van Eaton—14.

Noes—Allen, Clark, Kuhn, O'Neil, Raymond, Rees, Taylor, Warman, speaker—9.

The following remarkable resolution was read in the lower house to-day and caused considerable merriment for a while:

"H. J. R. 13.—Resolved by the House, the Council concurring, That the author and all concerned in the following communication, clipped from one of the Seattle papers, be and is hereby entitled to free scholarships in the territorial university for the term of one school year with best wishes by all."

The item referred to is as follows:

"The members of the legislature have promptly voted themselves traveling expenses at the rate of 11½ cents a mile, amounting, according to an exchange, to $2301 24. Considering that the members almost without exception travel on free passes (given by the O. R. & N. and N. P. R. R. Cos., with objects in view), this appropriation of the people's money, at the average rate of over $60 a member, strikes us as one of the coolest proceedings we have yet heard of."

It was moved by one of the members to dump the resolution out of doors. Another moved to put it under the table. Still another moved to refer to committee on hospital for the insane, etc. Amid laughter and confusion the resolution was indefinitely postponed.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, OLYMPIA, W. T., Oct. 20, 1881.

To the Legislative Assembly: I had the honor, in a message dated the 15th of October, to apply to the legislative assembly for copies of such joint resolutions as may have been, or may be hereafter, passed by your honorable bodies, of a legislative character, requiring expenditure of public moneys or otherwise, in order that the executive department, as a co-ordinate and co-operative branch of the territorial government, and representing the government of the United States, may be in possession of an authenticated and intelligent knowledge of transpiring legislation.

I have received such copies and by an official correspondence with the secretary of the territory am informed that sundry joint resolutions of a legislative character, involving expenditures of public money, and other important legislation, have been officially and finally filed in his office which are without the approval of the governor.

Joint resolutions of a legislative character, unless approved by the governor, are void and inoperative. The organic act states that "the legislative power in each territory shall be vested in the governor and legislative assembly."

No argument is required to prove that appropriations of public moneys and other matters of important legislation contained in the resolutions referred to, are an exercise of legislative power.

The United States statutes provides that "the constitution and laws of the United States, which are not locally inapplicable, shall have the same force and effect in all the organized territories." The constitution of the United States declares that "every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, shall be presented to the president of the United States, who, if he approve, shall sign it." In the same section it is made a requirement that "every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and before the same shall take effect shall be approved by him."

The Hon. Mr. Kirkwood, secretary of the interior department at Washington, telegraphed me on the 19th day of October, that "a joint resolution of the territorial legislature is without effect unless approved by the governor."

I have a profound respect for the legislative assembly of Washington territory, and am impelled only by a strong sense of official responsibility and only to assert and to maintain the prerogative of a territorial executive to participate in the co-ordinate exercise of legislative powers, to prevent the payment of public moneys without law, and the appearance upon our statute books of enactments which are neither parliamentary, legal or constitutional.

WM. A. NEWELL, Governor.

The following is the text of H. B. No. 35, introduced in the house by Mr. Kuhn, entitled an act to encourage the building of railroads over the Cascade mountains:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the legislative assembly of the territory of Washington, That all railroads constructed by any person, firm or corporate company from any point or points on tide water on Puget sound, over the Cascade mountains, to any point on the Columbia river, above where the 46th degree of north latitude crosses said river, be and the same are hereby exempt from taxation for the term of fifteen years from and after the 1st day of January, 1882: provided, that any person, firm or corporate company to derive any of the benefits provided for in this act, shall construct forty miles of road between tidewater and some point on said river, before the 1st day of January, [illegible], and complete such road between said points before the 1st day of January, [illegible].

Sec. 2. That all material for the construction of any road over the Cascade mountains, as herein provided, be and the same is hereby exempted from taxation.

Sec. 3. That nothing in this act shall be construed to exempt from taxation any lands that may be owned in this territory by any road.

Sec. 4. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its approval by the governor.

IMPORTANT TO MEDICAL MEN.

C. B. 46, introduced to-day by Miller of King, is entitled an act to provide for the regulation of the practice of medicine and for the registration of all practitioners of medicine and surgery.

Section 1 provides that the county auditors of each county shall keep a medical register for the registration of each practitioner of medicine and surgery in such county.

Section 2 prohibits all persons from practicing medicine or surgery for gain unless he shall be a graduate of a legally chartered medical college or university having authority to confer the degree of M. D. The diploma, together with the vouchers, shall be entered in the register and the documents shall be placed on file for public inspection.

Section 3 makes provision when diploma or documents are lost or destroyed.

Section 4 provides that any one who is engaged in the practice of medicine or surgery at the time of the passage of this act without having the degree of M. D. shall be allowed to continue such practice, but such person shall make such statement to the auditor and he shall register the facts.

Section 5. On and after Jan. 1, 1882, it shall be unlawful for any one except as herein provided, not a graduate of a legally chartered medical college or university having power to grant said degree, to engage in the practice of medicine or surgery in Washington Territory.

Section 6. Every practitioner shall pay a registration fee of $[illegible].

Sec. 7. Nothing in this act shall prevent any physician or surgeon, legally qualified to practice medicine or surgery in the state or territory in which he resides, from practicing in this territory, but any person opening an office or appointing a place to receive patients shall be deemed a sojourner, and shall conform to this law. Sec. 8 provides that persons of either sex may so register and practice.

It is generally supposed that this is the most liberal medical bill ever brought before the legislature, and it seems to create a favorable impression so far.

VACATION.

After all kinds of trouble over the matter, it was at last decided to-day by joint resolution to take a recess after the afternoon session on Thursday next until the Tuesday following at 2 P. M. This will enable the members of both houses to visit the penitentiary, insane hospital and university, and will enable the committees to work up their business satisfactorily in the meantime.

During the trip THE OREGONIAN shall be kept fully informed as to the movements of the legislature through your REPORTER.

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

There are 45 cases on the docket of the circuit court of Baker county.

Col. Thos. S. Lang has assumed editorial charge of The Dalles Mountaineer.

A load of Beaver creek butter was sold in Canyon City last week at 37½c per pound.

A young lady of John Day picked and put up in the cellar 30 bushels of apples in one day last week.

During the week there were 160 tons of railroad iron shipped to Umatilla, to be used between that point and Pendleton.

J. A. Guilliford left at the store in Dufur, Wasco county, six potatoes of the variety of Early Rose and Snow Flake, weighing 12 pounds, the heaviest one weighing three pounds; and J. J. Griffin left at the same place 12 potatoes of the Snow Flake variety which weighed 25 pounds, the heaviest weighing three pounds; also a squash of the Acorn variety weighing 40 pounds, and a turnip weighing 18½ pounds. The above were grown on bunch-grass hill land without irrigation.

The second annual fair of the Grant county agricultural society held on the 10th inst., was rendered a failure on account of the severe weather. The News of Canyon City says: "The weather in the morning on Monday, the opening day, was fine, but in the afternoon clouds appeared in the western horizon and rain fell in the evening and during the night, accompanied with a strong wind. Tuesday afternoon the rain turned to snow, and snow fell all night. The weather continued cold and gloomy all day Wednesday and Thursday. On the grounds groups of men and women were seen hovering about fires. Of course the attendance could not be very large under such discouraging circumstances. Nor could the races be run with any satisfaction, as the track was in all sorts of conditions, and no one could look on with any comfort."

Western Oregon.

Royal & Rudder have taken a contract for dredging Codine creek, near McMinnville, for $1000. The work will be begun at once.

Mrs. Link, who lived about three miles out of McMinnville, died on the 18th inst., aged 45 years. Her husband, John Link, was killed by a runaway team about a year since. Three children are orphaned by their deaths.

The Salem city council have offered $250 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Peter McManus. This added to the amount before offered makes $380 now standing as a reward for the perpetrator of this crime.

The tax levy of Clackamas county for the current year is 21 mills on the dollar. The total amount of tax to be raised amounts to $44,080 90, of which the following are the items: Schools, $6209 70; county tax $25,873 75; state tax, $8979 50; insane asylum, $2069 90; Modoc war bonds, $1034 75. # REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The following special report of the real estate market is furnished THE OREGONIAN by J. Fred. Clark & Co., real estate agents:

The business of the past week has been good, the volume being somewhat above average. The property owners have abundant faith in its future. They do not doubt that its commercial supremacy will be sustained through all time; they regard it as beyond a peradventure. The capital centered in it and the commercial hold it has upon the interior would seem to warrant this belief. Without the aid of the funds of Portland capitalists it would at present be impossible for many of the producers of Oregon to continue their business, and it would be beyond their power to remove their products to the seaboard and transport them to their final markets. It is to the interest of all Oregonians to remember these facts. We make this assertion because we have observed a tendency on the part of the representatives of other counties to sit down on Multnomah county, or rather on Portland. Such action is in our opinion the extreme of folly. If Portland is the head of the state it is only a part of one great body. If the Willamette valley be the hands and eastern Oregon the feet, the hands, feet, and head are each needful to the other. The welfare of each and all depends upon concerted action or united effort for the common good. If the hands make war upon the feet or the feet upon the hands, or upon the head, it is probable that the whole body will suffer, and that another and very important factor of human happiness, "the stomach," will be unsatisfied. Be it remembered that the common good demands unity, the town is as necessary to the country as the country is to the town, neither can subsist alone. Let us have a united Oregon. Since our last report the steamer State of California stuck on the shoal near the mouth of the Willamette. The expenses of dredging the Willamette from Portland to its confluence with the Columbia, and keeping a free and unobstructed passage, would not amount to half a mill on the dollar on the producing and commercial estates concerned. It would be wise for the country to ponder the effect of obstructions to navigation on freights, and to remember that the producer (and not the middleman be he merchant banker or agent) bears the entire loss in diminished prices occasioned by obstructed navigation. "What is everybody's business is nobody's business," is a true adage. This is certainly the business of "everybody" who desires the prosperity of the state of Oregon, and we hope speedily to see that we have amongst us plenty of energetic citizens who are prepared to show that they are not "nobodies."

We believe it is the duty of Uncle Sam to do the work but since he does not do it, let us do it ourselves, and that right away. The interests of real estate, both of town or country, are involved, and both require the removal of all obstructions to the navigation of the Willamette and Columbia.

The records of the past six days show 27 deeds,—the total amount being $69,491 33 as compared with 34 deeds and $27,245 94 during the preceding week. The transactions were distributed as follows: City proper, 4 deeds, $42,033 33; Couch's addition, and northward, 3 deeds, $6650; East Portland, 7 deeds, $6095 Caruthers' and southward, 5 deeds, $2515; country, 9 deeds, $10,398.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

Complete Review of the Produce and Merchandise Trade Specially Telegraphed to The Oregonian.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Few sales of wheat were reported yesterday, but choice readily brought full figures, showing that the tone of the market was strong in spite of dullness. Liverpool showed a slight improvement, which encouraged holders of wheat here. Freights were steady and quiet. Barley was firmly held with only light trade reported. All staple merchandise was in demand at steady prices, shading off in oil and old mixed rice, consequent upon free arrivals, and a better state of feeling in some lines of chemicals, comprise all the changes in quotations. Trade is in a very healthy condition and both in volume and prices cannot be otherwise than satisfactory to dealers.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Although there is more doing in freight via Cape Horn than for a long time still the market cannot be said to be at all active, but on the contrary rather quiet for the season. There are quite a large number of orders here for goods but deliveries appear at a standstill. Manufacturers promise to hurry up and clear all their orders in season for shipment. The ship St. Paul has completed her cargo which comprises in part, 705 tons coal, 30 cases leaf tobacco, 100 cases canned goods, 150 bbls whisky, 200 cases cider, 500 boxes tin, also a lot of iron, steel, agricultural goods etc. Rates are unchanged and very firm. Tonnage has been offered more freely and several vessels have been taken, among them the Tam O'Shanter, Josephus and a new ship of about 1800 tons, all for Van Vleck's line. The Iroquois has been withdrawn from the line and will take a cargo of railroad iron to Tacoma. The new bark or brig also takes a cargo of rails to Tacoma. Markets are generally active yet and prices steady.

Wheat—Dull; exporters are not buying largely because they believe prices to be too high.

Barley—Inactive.

Rio coffee—Very moderate in demand and a quarter lower.

Refined sugars—Inactive and irregular.

Provisions—Dull and easier.

Hides—In fair demand; sales 527 California kip, private.

Quicksilver—Higher and held at 41@42c.

Turpentine—Quiet and very firm at an advance.

Petroleum—Firm and quiet.

Foreign fruits—Quiet.

AUCTION SALE.

I WILL SELL ON MONDAY, THE 24TH DAY of October, A. D. 1881, at the hour of 10 o'clock on said day, at the auction house of A. B. Richardson & Co., one two-horse wagon, formerly used for hauling dirt. The above described wagon was left in my shop on July 5, A. D. 1881, for repairs. The owner being unknown to me has failed to call for or claim the same. The sale is to be made for the purpose of paying the charges which I have against this wagon for work done and materials furnished amounting to [illegible] and also the cost of this advertisement. The sale is by virtue of the act of the legislative assembly of the state of Oregon, approved Oct. 25, 1874.

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH.

Such as SPERMATORRHŒA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail. ### FINANCIAL MATTERS.

Business Transactions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Every town in the union except Memphis shows an increase in business transactions this week over the corresponding week of last year. Following is a detailed table of increase in percentages as shown by clearing house returns:

| | |
|---|---|
| New York | 40.8 |
| Boston | 40.8 |
| Chicago | 40.2 |
| Philadelphia | 22.5 |
| Cincinnati | 66.8 |
| St. Louis | 31.5 |
| San Francisco | 82.0 |
| Baltimore | 10.7 |
| New Orleans | 30.5 |
| Pittsburg | 28.3 |
| Louisville | 43.1 |
| Milwaukee | 4.6 |
| Providence | 10.8 |
| Kansas City | 67.5 |
| Cleveland | 50.7 |
| Indianapolis | 52.3 |
| New Haven | 18.5 |
| Worcester | 19.5 |
| Syracuse | 21.2 |
| Lowell | 2.0 |

At Memphis the decrease was only 5.1

Commenting on these figures the Public says, the volume of legitimate business was remarkably large, the more because money became more easy and there were signs of breaking of the grain blockade. Streets have rarely been more blocked with loads of freight when in the ent condition for hauling [illegible] show that the improvement since last year has been almost as great in the aggregate of other cities, and at several important points much greater. Returns clearly show after all reasonable allowances have been made, that the volume of business throughout the country is greater than ever before. At the same time it is indisputably true that an undue and dangerous proportion of business is done at Chicago, and in a less degree at a few other points it is speculative and unhealthy.

Treasury Statement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—In view of the approaching end of Secretary Windom's administration a treasury department statement was prepared by Chief Coons, of the loan division, to-day, showing in detail the amount of U. S. bonds redeemed, which have ceased to bear interest, together with the reduction of annual interest since March 4, the last date upon which the secretary assumed control of the department. The amount of U. S. bonds redeemed since March 4, '81 are: Act of March 2d, 1861, rate 6 per cent., $711,550; act of July 17th, and August 5th, 1861, rate 6 per cent., $16,742,000; act of March 3, 1863, rate 6 per cent., $6,785,150; act of July 14, 1870, and January 20, 1871, rate 5 per cent., $67,317,350; U. S. bonds continued at 3½ per cent. rate, $13,108,000. Total amount, $105,630,750. Reduction in interest charge? On 6 per cent. bonds there were redeemed $1,452,684, and continued $4,451,35; total $5,904,002. On five per cent. bonds, redeemed $3,360,867, and continued $6,022,549; total $9,413,417. On 3½ per cent. bonds, redeemed $476,280. Total $15 793,759. Of $105,556,750 of bonds which have been redeemed or ceased to bear interest there are at this time still outstanding $6,187,150 of 5 per cent. bonds embraced in the 104th call. Money for the redemption of these bonds, however, is available, and bonds will be paid upon presentation.

Total outstanding 5s (continued) $401,490,000, of which $22,000,000 are held abroad and $182,000,000 by national banks.

A Good Reduction.

March 1, 1869, the annual interest charge on the national debt was $126,000,000; March 1, 1873, it was $102,000,000; March 1, 1877, $94,000,000; March 1, 1881, $77,000,000, and on the 18th of October, 1881, it was $61,000,000, making an average monthly reduction, under Windom's administration, of $1,974,318—the highest average reduction made by any secretary of the treasury.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The Peabody Fund.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The original sum of £500,000, given by the late George Peabody in 1862 as a fund for building lodging-houses for the poor in London, now amounts to £720,000.

An appeal to Tenants.

Michael Henry, home-rule member of parliament for county Galway, has issued a circular to his tenants, pointing out that if any of them think they can get better terms from the land court, he has neither power nor wish to prevent them, but he also points to its unequaled loans spent for rents and other advantages. He says he is willing to allow a reduction of from 15 to 20 per cent. on the half year's rent due from May last, but hereafter the old rents would be expected. He hopes rents will be cheerfully paid and that tenants will not abide in false friends and teachers and reverse the relations hitherto existing, but will maintain their self respect and character as honest men.

Forced to Settle.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—It is stated that Paris bears have been obliged to pay £600,000 by closing some large accounts in Union general shares. A quarter of a million represents the difference of one house alone.

Relics of the Franklin Expedition.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Captain Adams, of the whaler Arctic, says that he visited the scene of the loss of the Erebus and Terror of the Franklin expedition. He found the house and store of provisions near the Franklin monument, in a wretched condition. In Fury and Hecla straits the Esquimaux gave him particulars which appear to clear up the fate of the last survivors of the Franklin expedition. After they lost the ships, seventeen men started overland hoping to reach Hudson's bay. Only three survived the journey to the house of the narrator's father. One of these, supposed to be Lieut. Crozier, died first. The deaths of the others followed.

Losses by the Gale.

It is estimated that 43,670 tons of produce, including 10,464 tons of coal, were lost at sea during the recent gale. A majority of the wrecked vessels were loaded with common but general produce, as well as building materials. The petroleum, herrings, tar and oil cake lost aggregate 12,267 tons. The balance of losses are salt, iron and timber.

Disabled Ships Found.

Five ships dismantled and abandoned in the recent terrible gales have been picked up and towed into port.

A Sculptor's Death.

Rafael Monte, a celebrated Italian sculptor is dead, aged 53.

The New Cuban Governor General.

MADRID, Oct. 18.—The appointment of Gen. Pendergast as governor of Cuba, to succeed General Blanco, has been gazetted. It is believed he will take out a decree granting amnesty to exiled journalists.

The Spanish Senate.

MADRID, Oct. 19.—In the senate to-day, an address replying to a speech from the throne was adopted—128 to 11. Marquis D'Armijo, minister of foreign affairs, explained negotiations with the vatican in reference to late disturbances in Rome, and negotiations with France, relative to the Seda massacre. Premier Sagasta declared the ministry sought to reconcile liberty with monarchical institutions, with which Spain was well satisfied. He congratulated former republicans upon the now strengthening monarchy.

Opposing the Government.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Von. Bobrecht, ex-minister of finance, has formally taken a stand against the government and is especially fighting against the tobacco monopoly.

A Nuncio Dead.

ROME, Oct. 18.—Koncetti, papal nuncio to Bavaria, is dead.

MEXICO.

Fight between Mexicans and Indians.

SANTA FE, Oct. 19.—The New Mexican publishes a communication from Villa de San Buenaventura, Mexico, under date of Sept. 30th, giving an account of a fight with Indians on Sept. 25th, near Death Point. The Indians attacked a ranche six miles west, taking off some horses. Sixty well armed and mounted citizens, headed by the mayor of the town, immediately went in pursuit and overtook the Indians in canyon del Cristo. In the fight which ensued the Mexicans lost eight horses killed and one man wounded. The Mexicans retreated. The Indian loss could not be ascertained. A Mexican woman of Cubero, N. M. and a Mexican boy aged 9 years, who were captured by Indians last August in New Mexico, escaped from the Indians near the scene of the fight and joined the Mexican party. From them the following facts were learned: The Indian party consisted of twelve bucks with three families and are a remnant of Victorio's band, led by Victorio's brother. They have with them four other captives, whose ages range from 7 to 16 years. Most all from New Mexico. The Indians are well equipped in every respect. Their intention is to proceed toward Chihuahua with a view of exchanging their white captives for Indian captives.

PENNSYLVANIA POLITICS.

The Bolt of Wolfe the Leading Feature in the Pennsylvania campaign this year—History of the Independent Movement, and how the old Stagers of both Parties speculate upon It.

[Correspondence St. Paul Pioneer Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—Although this is an off year in politics, generally speaking, here in Pennsylvania it promises to be an unusually active one. The contest now in progress, over the state treasury, contains a factor in the person of Charles S. Wolfe, which adds extra interest to the problem and gives it somewhat of a perplexing and uncertain character. The candidacy of Mr. Wolfe, independent as it is, is the result of the break which was threatened last winter during the fight for the United States senatorship. For several years past a large number of republicans have decried the Cameron rule, as it is styled in the state, and desired a reformation, with the placing in control of some new and ostensibly more honorable men. It was this faction which supported Galusha A. Grow in the senatorial struggle of last winter and were disappointed at the nomination of Mitchell. In other words, a certain element of the republican party became convinced that the party had been managed long enough by the machine, as they termed the Cameron-Quay-Oliver crowd, and proposed a change. This was not accomplished in the fight for senator, so it was renewed at the convention in Harrisburg, a few weeks ago, when a candidate was placed in the field for the state treasurership.

Charles S. Wolfe has been one of the leading spirits in this anti-machine movement from its very inception. He is a prominent lawyer, residing in Lewisburg, and has mingled in politics more or less actively for many years. In the legislature and out he has been indefatigable in attacking any and every bill or scheme which originated with and was for the good of the "machine." He appeared at Harrisburg, not really as a candidate, but ready to become one should the exigencies of the case seem to demand it. The contest was brief and was won by the machine men, Gen. Silas M. Baily of Uniontown secured the nomination. Although not out and out a machine man, he is identified with the interests of the Cameron clique and was one of the stalwart 306 at Chicago. He is a man against whom nothing can be said personally, the antagonism to his election being based entirely on his allegiance to the so-called "ring" element in the party.

Mr. Wolfe announced himself as a candidate for state treasurer within forty-eight hours after the close of the Harrisburg convention. His letter gave a statement of the reasons for his "independent course." He claimed that the corruption existing in the dominant faction of the republican party demanded speedy and severe punishment. The lobby, in the connection of the ring, with corporations, etc., required, in his opinion, the reprimand of the decent republicanism of the state. He intended to test the matter by placing himself in the field, unsupported by any faction, and relying solely upon the sentiment of the public and whatever weight his arguments might have. His announcement was sudden, and created a great deal of excitement and comment. The Baily wing laughed at the idea, and said Wolfe had ruined himself. His candidacy would amount to nothing, and his following would be meagre. The democracy encouraged Wolfe at the outset. They saw in him a chance for themselves and their ticket.

It was the verdict of the independent republicans, however, which was most anxiously awaited. This came slowly, but when it did appear it issued no uncertain sound. The independents declared themselves unreservedly for the Wolfe movement. One of the first organizations to offer him support in an unofficial way, was the committee of 100 in this city. This is the body composed entirely of prominent business and professional men, republicans which organized the reform movement last spring and carried their ticket through all the municipal elections. Individually this committee assured Mr. Wolfe of their hearty co-operation and their confidence in the desirability of his movement. The stand of these citizens speedily brought out the opinions of other republicans, and it was learned that here in Philadelphia Wolfe would receive a large number of votes. Ten days ago came the democratic convention at Williamsport and the nomination by that body of Orange Noble of Erie. The nomination of the convention was anxiously looked forward to by everybody. It was felt that it was necessary for the democracy to place a strong man before the people, as there would be a strong defection to Wolfe. On the other hand it was perceived that a good nomination, one which would keep the party together, gave the democratic party a more than even chance for victory in November. Mr. Noble is a fairly strong man, as is conceded by his opponents. He will make a good run, and yet it seems doubtful whether he can prevent a large influx of votes to Wolfe's cause. The pardon board bribery and legislative corruption generally, as charged by Wolfe and his followers, falls partly upon the heads of democratic representatives at Harrisburg, and, therefore, renders reform a topic for consideration in both parties.

Present appearances indicate that the Wolfe movement will be a very strong and important one. Already it has assumed large proportions. Much of this is due to Mr. Wolfe's personal enthusiasm and ability. Two nights ago he delivered an address in this city, in which he arraigned what he terms "boss rule" in scathing terms and in a very taking manner. Its delivery was received with great applause by an audience composed of the better class of citizens, and it is being widely read throughout the city and state. To-day Mr. Wolfe starts to stump the state. In conversation with your correspondent last evening, Mr. Wolfe said that he intended to press his cause in every large town in Pennsylvania, and meant to organize as thorough a campaign as possible without the aid of a thoroughly equipped bureau. He is hopeful, and his hopefulness is contagious. Looking at the matter in an impartial way and as a matter of news, it seems probable just now that Mr. Wolfe will receive a very large support. He will at least equally divide the regular republican vote in this city, besides getting a fair following from the democracy. The young democratic organizations of the city are believed to be in sympathy with him, as well as some of the old time politicians, who have retired from active warfare. In the rural districts, Mr. Wolfe will probably meet with even greater success. He has the start of both Baily and Noble. He is a good speaker and is on the offensive. The resources at hand in the crookedness which has prevailed for some time in the legislative halls at Harrisburg furnished him with the ground work for strong and telling addresses. The former element believes in honest administration and quickly rallies around the banner which flaunts reform as a watchword. All these things help Wolfe.

On the other hand, Gen. Baily is personally popular and knows how to extend his popularity. He is the regular party nominee and has the support of a well organized and determined set of politicians. He will make a thorough canvass and leave no stone unturned to secure his election. Noble will also make the strongest possible kind of a fight. It will therefore be a very active and exciting campaign. It is impossible to predict the result with any degree of confidence. Wolfe can scarcely be elected, yet it looks as though he might poll as many votes or nearly so, as Baily. In that case Noble would be elected. This is the fear of the regular republicans and the regular republican journals are denouncing Wolfe as a tool of the democracy. While this charge is not true it is probably true that Wolfe would a little rather Noble should become state treasurer than Baily. If he cannot reform the party within the party lines he appears to believe in getting some one outside to reform it. He means to upset the old regime, and at present it looks as though he would accomplish his purpose.

OIL! OIL!
SKIDEGATE OIL!

QUALITY, QUANTITY AND PRICE

Are three great considerations to consumers in the general use of LUBRICANTS. On these we base our claims to the Trade, and confidently advertise.

OIL from shark livers is well known to possess very superior lubricating properties, and that manufactured by the Skidegate Oil Company, at their steam works, Queen Charlotte Island, has been tested in competition with Lard, Olive, Gallipoli and Rangoon Oils, and in every instance has proved its superiority. The QUALITY is good, beyond a doubt, a less QUANTITY is required, and the PRICE placed at a rate that is bound to command a large sale, and give satisfaction to the consumer. The Company has numerous testimonials in support of its merits, but to those who have not used it, a fair trial is the best way to test its properties and economize value.

PUT UP IN CASES 10 GALLONS EACH.

Quality, ORDINARY and EXTRA. The EXTRA we maintain is second to none in the world for any class of machinery. Send for circular.

This Company is among the oldest and strongest companies in the world. Its organization dates back to 1824. Of the ninety-five companies doing business on this coast, and the 169 reporting to the New York insurance department, in point of paid up capital it ranks No. 9, while in point of assets it ranks No. 6. Adding its subscribed capital, subject to call, amounting to over $30,000,000, which, under the stringent laws of Great Britain governing unpaid capital, as fully illustrated in the failure of the Glasgow Bank, is available to the last dollar for its liabilities, it stands at the head of all the companies doing business in America; making in all, in actual resources, $33,767,690.68, and every policy issued pledges on its face, and in its contract binds its actual fire assets, every dollar of its authorized and subscribed capital of $30,000,000 to the payment of its fire losses.

Policies of from one thousand to ten thousand dollars each issued to unmarried persons of good moral character upon payment of an annual premium of $5 on each thousand for males under [illegible] females under 16, and $10 per year in each thousand for all above those ages, for the first four years; after which only one dollar per thousand will be charged, during unmarried life. In addition to these annual premiums, and commencing next February, a monthly rate, graded according to age, will also be levied upon each $1000 of insurance, viz: On all under 12 years, 25cts; 12 years 50cts; 13 years, 60cts; 14 years, 75cts; 15 years, 90cts; 16 years, $1; 17 years, $1 25; 18 years, $1 35; 19 years, $1 40; 20 to 25 years, $1 50; 25 to 35 years, $1 75; and all above 35 years $2 per month.

Those holding policies of $5000 or less are not, under pain of forfeiture, allowed to marry within six months from the date of such policy, and those holding policies of a greater amount than $5000 are not allowed to marry within the first year.

Policies are payable at the end of the year in which marriage occurs, at the rate of 25 per cent. for every year from the date and amount of policy, after which all further interest ceases. For example: A, who is 21 years old, takes out a policy Aug. 1, 1881, for $1000, paying $5. On the first of February following he commences paying monthly dues of $1 50, and then marries, it being six months from the date of his policy; he still continues to pay $1 50 per month until the 1st of August, 1882, when he receives the amount of his policy, less 4 annual premiums, leaving him $228 net, having only paid out $15, and his policy is then canceled. B is of the same age and takes out a like policy at the same time, but marries the second year and receives twice as much as A did. C takes out a like policy and marries the third year thereafter, receiving three times as much benefits as A, or ¾ the amount of his insurance. D also takes out a similar policy, but fails to marry until the end of the 4th year thereafter, when he receives the full amount, $1000. E took out a policy of $50 [illegible] the same time, paid 5 times as much premiums and monthly dues, but received, according to date of marriage, 5 times as much benefits, and so on for any other ages or amounts.

Parties residing where no agency has yet been established, may procure policies by sending direct to the home office or nearest agency, giving date and place of birth, and at the same time remitting by money order, registered letter or check, $5 or $10, according to age as stated above, for each $1000 of insurance desired. Contracts made on the present basis will not be affected by any higher rates of monthly dues which may hereafter be deemed necessary.

This is purely a home institution, and the names of the officers, directors and references given in circular, with its stock capital, are a sufficient guarantee of its perfect reliability.

Energetic agents wanted everywhere. All our authorized agents are under bonds, and carry their commissions with them.

it is only a question of time and wise expenditure of money. Now, the question has naturally suggested itself to me during my present stay, is this city of Portland prepared for what is before it? Is it prepared for this enormous material development which is sure to follow the creation of these systems of railway, local and transcontinental? And I say to you, with the utmost frankness, that I do not think the city is as fully prepared as it ought to be. In the first place, I find amongst you a certain petty spirit in looking at the effect which the construction of this or that line may have upon particular branches of business here—upon the methods of doing business upon this Pacific coast. I find a nar-

In this respect you are more favored than almost any other American cities, all of which had to make great pecuniary sacrifices to secure such transportation business as you will secure without any sacrifices. All this that has been done for you and is being done for you, entitles me, at least, to call your attention to certain things that you ought to do in our interest as well as in your own. And here I come to one of the points that Mayor Thompson was good enough to suggest to me; namely, the question of the river improvements. I am not very thoroughly posted on the requirements in that respect. I do not pretend to give a decided judgment as to what should be done, but I shall be glad, for whatever it is

I EE-POT, DAY-POT, DEP-POT.

Said Master Jones, "Now must we go,
Without delay to the dee-pot."

Laughed sweet Miss Jones, "I should say so,
Let's start at once to the day-pot."

Smiled Mrs. Jones, "In quick step, oh,
We'll all run down to the dep-pot."

Groaned Mr. Jones, "It's mighty hot,
To drive you all to the des-pot."

Would not be if they'd call it "station."

SELECTED MISCELLANY.

Treatment of Women.

From the fall of the Roman empire in the west to the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, women spent most of their time alone; almost entire strangers to the joys of social life; they seldom went abroad, but to be spectators of such public diversions and amusements as the fashions of the times countenanced. Francis I. was the first to introduce women on public days to court; before this time nothing was to be seen in any of the courts of Europe but gray-bearded politicians, plotting the destruction of the rights and liberties of mankind, and warriors clad in complete armor, all ready to put their plots into execution. In the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries elegance had scarcely any existence, and even cleanliness was hardly considered as laudable. The use of them was not known, and the most delicate of the fair sex wore woolen underclothing. In Paris they had meat only three times a week, and ten pounds was a large "portion" for a young lady. The better sort of citizens used splinters of wood and rags dipped in oil instead of candles, which in those days was a luxury rarely to be met with. Wine was only to be had at the shops of the apothecaries, where it was sold as a cordial; and to ride in a two-wheeled car was reckoned a grandeur so enviable that Phillip the Fair prohibited the wives of citizens from enjoying it. In the time of Henry VIII. of England the peers of the realm carried their wives behind them on horseback when they went to London, and in the same manner took them back to their country seats, with hoods of waxed linen over their heads, and wrapped in mantles of cloth to secure them from the cold.

Greeley and Poe.

Horace Greeley was a man of exhaustless humanity and kind heartedness. He seems to have been poor Edgar Poe's main resort and money-lender when the poet's reckless habits had made other friends forsake him.

A writer in a Utica, New York, journal says Poe and Greeley occasionally met, and the latter often befriended the former, for he saw how ill-adapted such a man was to contend with poverty.

Greeley was born poor, and could live on a crust; was a type-setter by trade, and if he failed as an editor, he could fall back on labor.

Poe, on the other hand, was a bred gentleman, and had the high-toned pride cultivated in the first families of Virginia. He scorned his Bohemian associates, and only poverty kept him from hurling reproach on his employers. The only one upon whom he could rely for aid in any time of distress was Greeley, who freely shared with him his scanty earnings.

After Poe's death there was a demand for his autographs, and among others applications were made to Greeley.

"I have a number," was Greeley's dry reply to an applicant, "which you can have at first cost."

They were Poe's due bills for loans varying from ten dollars to twenty-five dollars. Greeley afterwards destroyed them, in preference to exposing the misfortunes of a friend.

The Unmated Princess.

Olive Logan writes from London: "The Princess Beatrice will be before the public in a Christmas book of sketches, but I understand there is to be no literary matter connected with the "Princess" twelve water-color drawings which are being reproduced in chromo-lithography by the firm of Bach, of Leipsic. From all that I can learn, this piece of color-printing will mark an epoch in the art. The sketches represent the appropriate flowers for the twelve months of the year, and the wreath for the April month requires eighteen colors to illustrate it, as painted by the hand of the princess. The shop windows are just now full of photographs of this lady, the queen's youngest daughter. She strongly resembles her brother, the prince of Wales, and the likeness to their ancestors, the Georges, is very marked. A very beautiful figure has the princess 'Bee,' wide, sloping shoulders, and a wasp-like waist, a plump white throat, encircled with a necklet of pearls. Many a man might lose his heart there easily, but what's the use? She is as proud as she is pretty, and where is her fitting mate the princes? Beatrice might have married Alfonso, king of Spain, if she had been willing to renounce the faith of which her illustrious mother is the righteous defender."

Resources to draw On.

Mr. Webster used to tell with great zest an incident in his professional life to illustrate how past studies may prove of great service in an emergency. While practicing in New Hampshire, a blacksmith employed him to defend a contested will. The case was such a complicated one that he was obliged to order books from Boston at an expense of $50, in order to acquaint himself with and to settle the legal principles involved. He won the case, and as the sum involved was small, charged $15 for services, and was therefore largely out of pocket. Many years later, when passing through New York, he was consulted by Aaron Burr.

"I have a very complexing case," said Mr. Burr, "which I cannot disentangle. I know I am right, but see no way of proving it in court."

Mr. Webster listened, and found the principle identical with his early case.

He stated them in such a luminous way that Mr. Burr excitedly asked: "Have you been consulted before, Mr. Webster?"

"No, sir; never heard of the case till you mentioned it."

"How is it possible you could unravel such a case at sight, when I had given many hours of anxious study in vain?"

Mr. Webster enjoyed his perplexity, but finally relieved him by a statement of the facts. A great sum was at stake and Mr. Webster received a fee of $1000 to balance his former loss.

The moral of this incident is that whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Mr. Webster, when a young lawyer, acted on this maxim, and this laid the foundation of his greatness as a lawyer.

A Good Sleeper.

Count Napoleon Bertrand, who has just died in Paris at the age of seventy-two years, had other interesting points about him besides being a son of that Bertrand who was Napoleon's companion at St. Helena, and one of the staunchest friends the fallen emperor ever had. For a long time it has been his custom to hire a hotel room for three months in Paris and then go permanently to bed. During these periods food was brought to him once a day by a servant who had been instructed not to utter a word in his presence. During the siege of Paris he was thus abed and usually asleep. He did not know anything of the siege until the bread became bad. One day it was so abominably bad that he broke out in a rage and forced the servant to tell him the cause. For a moment he was stupefied when he heard that the Prussians were before the very walls of the city. Then he got up and wandered aimlessly about the hotel, muttering to himself: "Paris besieged! besieged! What ought a Bertrand to do?" At last he decided what was proper for Bertrand to do. It was this: "I will go to bed." To bed he accordingly went and slept out the siege.

Two Farm Pictures.

The Connecticut Farmer presents these two suggestive pictures from real life, that have come under its own observation:

The boys like to read, and the master says, "no time for readin', them tater bugs must be picked off, and the boy goes, though he only wanted to read just one piece after dinner. The best of everything is sold, for no buyer wishes second rate articles, and if any suggestion is made concerning a new kind of pear tree or grape vine, the answer is, "I've no money to throw away for such truck; there's plenty of apples and wild grapes."

A pleasant home, attractive dishes of fruit, always handy; educated, home-loving boys; good society sought by father, mother and children; books by the best authors and "papers that smell of the printing office;" an exceeding neat farm, whose walls are made to last, where trees of all kinds of choice fruit are grown, and where the cultivated land yields just the kind the farmer wishes, for no weeds are allowed to grow, and the best of all, a proud mother saying to me, "My boys never gave me an hour's pain in their lives."

A little girl in a public school the other day was parsing the word "angel." Coming to the gender she stopped dismayed, and asked her teacher if there were any men angels in heaven.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the proper remedy to take in the spring of the year to purify the blood, invigorate the system, excite the liver to action, and restore the healthy tone and vigor of the whole physical mechanism, which often becomes impaired during the winter by lack of open air exercise and the want of sufficient care in the matter of diet.

GUITEAU'S "TRUTHFULNESS AND TIMIDITY."

[Chicago Tribune.]

Mr. George Scoville, the brother-in-law of the assassin of the late president, says: "I have always found Guiteau truthful in his dealings with me." Mr. Scoville is the only man with whom Guiteau ever had any "dealings" who is so fortunate as to have found him "truthful." It is fortunate for Guiteau that his brother-in-law is endowed with a confiding and trustful disposition. The man who, under the circumstances, believes Guiteau rather than Guard McGill possesses excellent material for a good brother-in-law. When Guiteau was "beating" his way through the world, and was reduced to rags, and starvation stared him in the face, he used to return to the bosom of his family to get fat and reclothed on their bounty. When he had gained sufficient strength he made it lively for his sister by chasing her about the house with an ax and threatening to split her head open. The presumption is that his brother-in-law didn't believe Guiteau insane then, for he didn't offer to confine him in an asylum. Guiteau was not so "timid" then as he is now. Mr. Scoville says: "He (Guiteau) is naturally of a timid disposition." Probably this is true now, but he was both timid and brave during his career as a dead-beat. He was never very timid in "running up" bills, but he was as bashful as a maiden in her teens about paying them. In fact, he would run away rather than meet a creditor, and his creditors were so plenty that his timidity kept him constantly on the run. It is eminently probable that he reserved all the truth there was in his "naturally timid disposition" for his brother-in-law's private ear, for he had to substitute lies for the bills of his boarding-house keepers, his tailors, and his washerwomen.

Brother-in-law Scoville says that the recent attempt upon Guiteau's life "has frightened him considerably." It is to be hoped that he now realizes how his sister felt when he was chasing her about the house with an ax, threatening to split her head open. Guiteau "fears violence" when he is being taken to court, and requests Brother-in-law Scoville to use every effort to insure his safety. This is evidence of his "naturally timid disposition." He fears violence to his own precious person, but he has no fear of violence to other persons. He took very good aim when he shot the president and then, after having done violence to millions of people in the person of their chosen representative in the first place in the land, he immediately became very timid on the subject of violence—violence to his own wretched carcass.

The prominent features of Guiteau's character, according to Brother-in-law Scoville, seem to be two—truthfulness and timidity. It must be admitted that these qualities are not usually found in an eminent degree of development in dead-beats. It is matter of astonishment how Guiteau was able so successfully to beat his way through the world for at least twenty years by being timid and truthful. The only explanation of this undoubted fact is that his truthfulness commenced where his timidity left off. When Guiteau registered at a hotel, for example, he was too timid to inform the proprietor that he had no money to pay his bill; and when the proprietor learned the fact he was too truthful to deny it. And then, having demonstrated his devotion to the truth, his timidity so overcame him that he ran away as fast as his legs would carry him to avoid being kicked into the street. Guiteau has always feared violence, and he has always had good occasion to fear it, for the people he has robbed have always been aching to kick him down-stairs and kick him after he was down. Truthfulness and timidity—bah!

THE CANGUE.

Just the Thing for Guiteau.

The cangue is the main prop of Mongolian order—the stocks, pillory and penitent at cell of Kathay. It is merely a cage of cross bars, which are sometimes made of bamboo, sometimes of iron, and sometimes of heavy timber. The prisoner's body is inclosed in this cage, which reaches from his knees to his neck; his head and limbs are alone free, his hands being strapped to a bar. Now, it is manifest that a criminal thus accoutred must be the prey and sport of his own portable jail. A captive at as he carries about his own dungeon and he cannot lie down to rest, but must pass whole days and nights on his feet, the poles attached to the cangue preventing him from lying down, while to the framework is fixed a placard inscribed with the wretch's name, offense and sentence. A cangue may weigh 100 pounds, or only 20, but in any case it is a dreadful punishment, kept on as it is for periods varying from six hours to six weeks. Imagine days and nights of cramp and sleeplessness, the stings of mosquitoes and other tormenting insects, worrying the naked skin, no hand to brush them away; the scorching sun and no screen, the chilly nights and no covering; weariness, dizzy brains, limbs racked by fatigue, fever, delirium, the pressure of the hard yoke on the galled shoulders, the strangling collar, the agony of long want of sleep, the thirst, the shame. Men often go mad in the cangue, it is said; they fall asleep on their feet, like horses, from exhaustion; they perish and are found dead in their cages like neglected wild beasts in captivity. But the cangue is a favorite punishment among the judges.—All the Year Round.

Gladstone's Greatness.

[New York Times.]

There is a refreshing frankness and firmness of touch about Mr. Gladstone's method of setting forth the political problems with which his government has to deal which would alone stamp him as one of the greatest statesmen that his country has produced. Old as he is, Mr. Gladstone's mind has not ceased to be receptive of new impressions, and his speeches at Leeds, summarized by cable, show how clearly he apprehends the necessity of a progressive and bold liberal policy. He admits that the Irish land act was but the first installment of justice to the tenant farmers of the United Kingdom, and that, different as may be the conditions of the land problem in England and Scotland, it is a problem not at all confined to the sister islands. The robust common sense with which he disposes of the disingenuous twaddle of the fair traders is as noticeable as the contempt with which he regards the "literature of assassination" which a reckless and venal clique of Irishmen have developed on this soil. He clearly perceives that "America's scorn, spurn and loathe it;" he might have added that only a small proportion of them are aware of its existence. Whatever misconception Mr. Gladstone may once have had about the force of the public opinion of the United States, he is evidently in no danger of seriously mistaking it now.

An English firm announces a new volume by Mark Twain, entitled "Prince and Pauper."

Col. T. W. Higginson is at his home in Cambridge and is writing a "Life of Benjamin Franklin."

M. du Chaillu's new book, "The Land of the Midnight Sun," will appear in London early this month.

Jim Keene has contributed $2,500 to the Michigan sufferers, which will probably be made up from sufferers in the next squeeze in cereals.

Edison has $5,000,000 worth of stocks in the companies formed to introduce his electric lamp. Edison is more fortunate in getting stocks than in getting a light.

The Custer monument has been erected upon the battlefield upon which the daring general fell. It is of granite, in the form of a low obelisk. It bears the names of all who died in Custer's fight.

One hundred and thirty thousand words will be defined in Ogilvie's "Imperial Dictionary of the English Language" when the new edition appears in England. This is thirty thousand more words than the old edition contains.

It was Napoleon who said of the letters and style of Madame de Sevigne: "Her style is undoubtedly full of charm, but you gain nothing by reading her. It is like eating snowballs, with which one can surfeit one's self without satisfying the stomach."

Ex-Secretary Belknap is interesting himself in politics again, his efforts just now being in the direction of defeating any aspiration which Secretary Kirkwood may have in regard to the Iowa senatorship. Mr. Belknap will be remembered as the gentleman who went over a fence rather suddenly about six years ago because it was healthier on the other side.

Fruit of the Spoils System.

[New York World.]

It was the "spoils system" which drove the late president from the White House to seek a refuge at Long Branch on the second day of last July. He fled from the torment of this system besieging him in the executive mansion only to encounter it in a Washington depot, where he was shot by it. When, two months later, he was taken to Long Branch again with every alleviating appliance of modern ingenuity, he was taken as the dying victim of this spoils system. Those eighty days of suffering and that untimely death were the bitter fruits of this vicious, demoralizing system.

HOW TO BREED GOOD DAIRY COWS.

I was born on a rough Connecticut farm on which breeding and selling stock of all descriptions, from hens to horses, was a business, and had early experiences in that occupation, working and doing what I could to improve stock and farm until near my majority. In the fall of 1829 I came to this city and engaged in mercantile pursuits, and in 1851 purchased a farm mostly located in this city. From that time to the present I have given much care and attention to the improvement of land and animals. I have bred and sold since then more than an average of 50 head of cattle and horses a year, and if I do not know something about them I must have been a dull scholar. I hold this principle true in breeding dairy stock that the best cow is the one that gives the richest and largest quantity of milk on a given quantity of feed, other things being equal; color and fancy points are secondary, not to be entirely ignored, for condition, color and beauty of appearance have more or less influence with forming the judgment in regard to animal life. I believe that in-and-in breeding, as advocated by many breeders, to be a fallacy, and that the proper mixture of two good bloods is the right way to obtain the highest type of animal.

To breed the best cows for all purposes, from butter to beef, is to select the largest milkers. From Ayrshires, cross with a thoroughbred Jersey bull from the best milk strain possible; the first calf will, of course be of each blood; cross a second time with Jersey bull, not related, and you have a cow three-quarter Jersey and one-quarter Ayrshire, and, if you please, continue to cross in this way, until there be but the smallest fraction of the original blood of the same. These cows with me have proved invariably the best. They have larger udders and teats, are more hardy than thoroughbred Jerseys, and yield more milk of equal quality.

It is a well-established fact that the Jersey bull always transmits the rich property of milk into whatever breed he serves. To sustain my opinion I will place one or more of my cross breeds, of the same age, in the hands of any fair, disinterested gentleman as test, for ten consecutive days against any thoroughbred Jersey heifer or cow, of any breeder in New England. I care not what particular strain of blue blood she has, from the Alphea to Coomassie, a descendant of Taintor's importation of 1850, or Kent's of 1851; weigh the heifers or cows, weigh the feed, care and feed to be alike, in proportion to weight of animals, and if my cross-breeds do not yield as much butter, pro rata, to their weight and feed, I will pay the test expenses and contribute $100 for a special premium at the coming World's fair, to be held in Boston for the best cow exhibited there of any breed, or vice versa. The same conditions shall apply to my opponent. I make this proposition only to show my faith by my work.

A very large demand for Jerseys has sprung up from the dairy sections of Ohio, Indiana and other western states within a year or two, which, I have no doubt, will in a few years increase the quantity as well as quality of their dairy products largely, and in time double their present value. I will make a suggestion as to herd registers, to prevent imposition and fraud on purchasers. Can you intelligently judge of the moral, mental, professional or financial qualities of the sons and daughters, much less grand-sons and grand-daughters, of the most noted families by reference to the excellent traits of their ancestry? The American Jersey cattle club organization, as near a close corporation as is possible, with its favoritism in making and unmaking rules to tax outside breeders and pure asses of Jerseys, does less than this—they only, after long delay and by the use of an unknown quantity of very red tape, give you the numbers, up to tens of thousands, at a fee of $3 each and trimmings, of simon pure thoroughbred cows, and I hazard the opinion that more than half of them there recorded will not give an average of ten quarts of milk daily, or make one pound of butter per day for three months, but the buyer is pleased in being the owner of a cow recorded on that gilt-edged register with its practical secretary, who so successfully managed Ogden farm! No wonder that purchasers are found for a coarse, vicious, ordinary looking black bull like Polonius at $4500, and a more ordinary looking thirteen-year-old Jersey cow at $3000. They were of the Alphea craze strain of blood. So were the $40,000 strain of Short-horn Duchess blood a few years ago. Down with such wild-cat theories, and give us good blood at fair prices and less humbug. You may buy gold too dear as well as shoddy or Jerseys. The Shorn-horn craze had its day, but the great benefit to the country was the crossing of the bulls with our different breeds, and so increasing the beef production. The Jersey blood is now going through a similar delusion, but will in the end, by judicious crossing of the good Jersey bulls on all the different breeds of dairy cows in this country, add more to the value of our dairy products than have the Short-horn bulls to the beef supply.—Thomas Fitch, in N. Y. Times.

WOOL NOTES FOR FARMERS.

The American Cultivator, in the course of an article upon wool interests, says that the value of a lot of wool depends largely upon the proportion of yearling fleeces therein, and so a proportion of the oldest lives should be fatted and sold each year. The value of fleeces in the same flock varies much, even when the utmost care and skill are devoted to the development of uniformity. In England the fleeces are sorted into those from yearlings, those from wethers and those from ewes. The wool that will make the greatest number of yards of yarn to the pound, is of the greatest market value. Firm felting-cloth is much less used now than formerly, the most popular goods being of hard and worsted goods. The curled "curl" in the staple is determined by the size or serrations upon the surface of the fiber, as seen by any good microscope.

The question of raising sheep profitably for mutton interests concerns many farmers who live near to good markets. But much depends upon the quality of the sheep raised. The feeling that "anything is good enough for mutton" has not yet entirely disappeared. It is not every farmer who abides by the distinction between wool sheep and mutton sheep. The good qualities of the Cotswolds are undoubted, but they need care and choice pastures. A first cross of the Southdowns upon common sheep suits the market. The black face and legs peculiar to this breed render it noticeable in market, if butchers, as they should, save the lower part of the legs undressed.

No matter how abundant the pasture appears to be, nor how mild the coming winter, some thought should be taken for the condition of the sheep when the rains begin. They can endure a good deal of cold; but continued wet weather is often too much for them, especially if allowed to enter the winter months in a weakened or diseased condition. Sheep are not to be neglected even in California, without showing it. There never was a flock yet, though kept on the best hill-ranges of the state, which in many seasons does not need the shelter of sheds on stormy days. If hay can be stored to feed them for a short period the grass gets a better start, and the pasture is more enduring than if too hastily trampled and nibbled. These are tried statements; but the fact remains that the best preparation for a hard winter is to have a flock in good condition before-hand. No thrifty farmer who owns sheep desires to burn his straw-piles at the first signs of winter; he considers good wheaten and barley straw as well worth stacking for use in time of need.

Teacher said he'd learned all there was to learn in my room, and that left me without anything to learn."

When old Mrs. Bunsby had got through reading in the paper an account of the last great fire she raised her spectacles from her eyes to the top of her head and remarked: "If the firemen would wear the good home-knit stockings, such as we make and wear in the country, they wouldn't be a-bustin' of their hose at every fire."

Referring to the suggestion that the Michigan sufferers be given the mourning emblems now over every door in the land, an exchange says: "A Michigan sufferer clad in white cambric pantaloons and black alpaca overcoat digging himself out of the winter's snow would be more picturesque than comfortable—but he'd keep up his reputation as a sufferer."

The Ohio man can no longer deadhead into the administration circus, and he is liable to get a rap over the head if he tries to crawl under the canvas.

Ben Butler is not running for governor this year, but Massachusetts wants somebody to stick a pin in him to see whether she is awake or asleep and dreaming.

Gen. Grant's presence are worth a fabulous amount. Grant's favorite military order always has been: "Present arms, or anything else you happen to have about your clothes."

Mr. Conkling says, with a pathos that almost moves him to tears: "Some things must go unanswered now. Perhaps I shall say something in the coming years." The years will creep slowly by, Lorenzo, until the distinguished ex-senator is heard from.

The idea of taking Guiteau from the jail to the court room in a patent safe is a valuable one with a combination lock is a good one. But it will be strange if, on arriving at its destination, the combination is not missing. It would then be another good idea to blow the vehicle up in order to get at the remains for the coroner's inquest.

THE ASSASSIN.

Guiteau has dictated the following to his brother-in-law and counsel, Scoville, which he (Guiteau) says was the exact language contained in the package he handed to the news agent at the depot the day of the shooting, and which was taken possession of by District Attorney Corkhill. Scoville publishes it as part of his plan to prove the assassin insane.

TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE: I conceived the idea of removing the president about four weeks ago. I conceived the idea myself and kept it to myself. Not a soul in the universe knew of my purpose to remove the president. It was my own conception and execution. I read the papers carefully for and against the administration, and gradually the conviction settled on me that the president's removal was a political necessity, because he proved a traitor to the men that made him, and thereby imperiled the republic. At the last presidential election the republicans carried every northern state. To-day, owing to the misconduct of the president and his secretary of state, they could hardly carry one. They certainly could not carry New York, which is the pivotal state. Ingratitude is the basest of crimes. That the president, under the manipulations of his secretary of state, has been guilty of the basest ingratitude to the stalwarts, admits of no denial. The express purpose of the president has been to crush Grant and Senator Conkling and thereby prepare the way for his renomination in 1884. In the president's madness he has wrecked the once grand old republican party, and for this he dies. The man who saved the republican party must govern it, and not the men who sought its life. I have no ill-will toward the president. This is not murder. It is a political necessity. It will make my friend Arthur president and save the republic. Grant, during the war, sacrificed thousands of lives to save the republic. I have sacrificed only one. I shot the president as I would a rebel if I saw him pulling down the American flag. I leave my justification to God and the American people. CHARLES GUITEAU.

Enormous Railway Traffic.

[Chicago Tribune.]

The magnitude of the railroad business of Chicago, or at least the passenger branch thereof, may be conjectured from the following figures, which show the number of passenger cars leaving and arriving at the West Side union depot during the month of September:

| | In. | Out. |
|---|---|---|
| Fort Wayne | 1 6 | 1896 |
| Alton | 8 2 | 878 |
| Chicago, Burlington & Quincy | 806 | 1814 |
| Milwaukee & St. Paul | 18.8 | 1109 |
| Pan-Handle | 5 5 | 576 |
| Total | 6590 | 273 |
| Total in and out | | 11.591 |

There were 70,000 pieces of baggage handled, and the total number of passengers carried was about 1,600,000.

A Claim of Authorship.

[San Francisco Bulletin.]

Joaquin Miller's claim to the play called "Danites" has recently been disputed by one McKee Rankin. For several years Miller was supposed to be the sole author of that play, including all the blood and thunder, and brickdust and lard, and whatever else appertained to it. Now, we have another version which, if it were true, would illustrate the way in which a name is so needlessly sold in the market. His contention declares that he is the author of the play; that he paid Miller 2500 for the use of his name; read the play to him, and obtained his approval, which probably meant the nod of a head, with flowing locks well oiled and suitably curled. If a lawsuit is to terminate the controversy, there will probably be some interesting developments. If Miller can sell his name for $2500, that is more than most poor authors can do.

Grant and the Spoils System.

[Correspondence Chicago Tribune.]

Is it not about time for a.... people to look certain facts in the face?

Is there not an element in American politics which has already passed through three stages? Are not those three stages Grantism, Conklingism, and Guiteauism? Has not Grantism been conspicuous in them all—the real, moving, invigorating power?

Can any man show any other result of Grant's civil career than the present growth and development of the outrageous and iniquitous spoils system, or deny but that the spirit of that system was the cause, and the only cause, of the horrid and murderous assault upon President Garfield?

Since 1868, in conclave with Conkling and Cameron and a horde of obsequious followers hungering for the spoils, has not Grant labored in season and out of season, in office and out of office, assiduously and incessantly to build up, strengthen and perfect the "machine" based upon rings, cliques, and the party whip, and fed by hypocrisy, selfishness, and hate, in order to enable him and his friends to run the government, regardless of how it was run, and is he not at it this moment?

Have not flagrant indecencies in politics, of which this disgraceful and ridiculous scramble for a third term may be mentioned as one, and have not he and others like him escaped accountability and justice, ... under the cover of epaulets, brass buttons, and "war record" long enough?

Drifting with the Tide.

Commissioner Raum, who last year removed an internal revenue officer in Virginia, for supporting publicly the readjuster movement is announced to speak at a readjuster meeting next week. Three is to a critic on this: his present attitude was inconsistent, he said he went with the democratic party leaders and administration, were a year ago against a coalition with Mahone, now they were in favor of it. Besides there had been more light thrown on the debt of Virginia and the treatment it had received. He intended to do all he could to beat the founders of the regular democracy.
